THE FEDERAL HUB.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR PROCLAIMS A NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

Secretary Windom Denies the Sensational Report of the President's Interview with MacVeagh—Collector Clark's Favorable Report to Commissioner Raum—General News.

WASHINGTON, November 7.—Ex-Secretary Windom referring, in conversation to-day, to the reported difference of opinion between President Arthur and Attorney-General McVeagh at a recent meeting of the cabinet, said that while he does not think it proper to discuss the nature of the business transacted at that meeting, he has no hesitation in saying that the published account of the proceedings is entirely without foundation, and nothing occurred to warrant the the assertion that there was any exhibition of ill-feeling on the part of either of the gentlemen mentioned. The questions under consideration were discussed in a most friendly spirit, without excitement or disagreement, and no personal criticism was made by any one contrary to the report. The secretary added the meeting was perfectly harmonious in every respect.

Judge Settle, the noted stalwart and Grant man of the south, who has for several years been comparatively quiescent, has appeared upon the scene. He is now here fresh from communion with President Arthur in New York.

The following proclamation was issued from the department of state to-day:

By the President of the United States of America—Proclamation: It has long been the pious custom of our people, with the closing of the year, to look back upon the blessings brought to them in the changing course of the seasons, and to return solemn thanks to the all-giving source from whom they flow; and although at this period, when a fallen leaf admonishes us that the time of our sacred duty is at hand, our nation still lies in the shadow of a great bereavement and the mourning which has filled our hearts still finds its sorrowful expression toward the God before whom we but lately bowed in grief and supplication. Yet the countless benefits which have showered upon us during the past twelve months call for our fervent gratitude and make it fitting that we should rejoice with thankfulness that the Lord in his infinite mercy has most signally favored our country and our people. Peace without and prosperity within have been vouchsafed to us; no pestilence has visited our shores; abundant privileges of freedom, which our fathers left us in their wisdom, are still our increasing heritage, and if in parts of our vast domain some afflictions have visited our brethren in their forest homes, yet even this calamity has been tempered and in a manner sanctified by a generous compassion for the suffering which has been called forth throughout our land. For all these things it is meet that the voice of the nation should go up to God in devout homage.

Wherefore I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do recommend that all people observe Thursday, the 24th day of November, instant, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, by ceasing, so far as they may, from their secular labors, and meeting in their several places for worship, there to join in ascribing honor and praise to Almighty God, whose goodness has been so manifest in our history and in our lives, and in offering earnest prayer that His bounties may continue to us and to our children.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this the seventh day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundrd and eighty-one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and sixth.

By the president: CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

JAMES G. BLAINE, Secretary of State.

Some weeks ago Commissioner Raum of the bureau of internal revenue, instructed the collectors in the illicit distillery districts throughout the south, to thoroughly inspect their districts and report by November 10th. To-day the first response to the order was received from Collector Clark, of Atlanta, Georgia, who says that upon the receipt of the instructions of the commissioner, he at once sent out six divisions of deputies with six employed men. The result of the investigation is stated by Collector Clark as follows:

The seizures were five distilleries and over six thousand gallons of mash and beer. The deputy-collector's report marked improvement in every county visited and says that the people are more inclined to furnish information and respect the laws. Trusted guides and informers who had previously given reliable information to revenue officers were visited, but no information could be obtained from them. The property owners and other good citizens were of the opinion that but little more work would be required to entirely suppress the violations of the revenue laws in their respective sections."

THE COTTON CROP.

Favorable Weather and a Marked Improvement During the Month.

Special dispatch to the Enquirer.

NEW YORK, November 4.—Special reports to Bradstreet's from 879 correspondents give returns of 522 cotton producing countries, over 90 per cent of the entire crop. They show that the weather throughout the south since September 19th, the date of the last report, has generally been very favorable for saving the crop, and also for maturing such plants as were still healthy and growing. This was true, October 24th, the date of the mail advices. In consequence, the condition of the plant and the prospects for yield have improved. The only exception is in Texas, where there has been too much rain. This has interfered with picking, injured the grade of unpicked cotton, and has caused many unmatured bolls to rot and drop off.

Worms are reported as having done injury to the top crop in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, though in some parts of the latter state the reports say they have done good by stripping the leaves and stopping the growth, thus exposing the bolls to the sun, and turning the vitality of the plant to maturing the bolls. The following table shows the average probable out-turn of each state October 24th:

	Per cent Below last year.
North Carolina and Virginia	31.4
South Carolina	36.5
Georgia and Florida	25.3
Alabama	18.5
Mississippi	21.4
Louisiana	17.6
Texas	39.5
Arkansas	52.9
Tennessee	42.2
Average for the cotton belt	30.5

Last month's report showed the condition of the crop to be 34.5 per cent below that of the preceding year. It will thus be seen that during the past month the prospect for yield has improved 4 per cent. It must be remembered that, as a rule, the above report does not include full allowance for increase of acreage this year, nor that this condition and prospect of yield may still improve if the top crop and second growth started in some localities since the September rains should mature. In giving a definite estimate of the actual out-turn next month, these and all other conflicting circumstances are to be taken into consideration.

Reports received this month indicate that in every state a portion of the crop is still healthy and making fruit which may mature. From North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas, however, nearly all reports are that the top crop is not likely to mature before frost. From Texas, also, the prospects for the top crops are reported bad, in consequence of too much rain having made the plants green and sappy. From South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana reports are that in portions of the state where the plant is healthy, and where worms have not destroyed the new growth, the prospect for the top crop is fair, and with favorable weather and frost delayed till November 10, the out-turn may be somewhat improved, though not much. If the top crop in Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee does mature, it will materially add to the yield of these states.

Special telegrams from General Hazen, of the signal service bureau, in Washington, to Bradstreet's yesterday, calculate that the heavy rains which have generally fallen throughout the cotton belt since October 24th must have injured the grade of unpicked cotton, and must for a time have put a stop to the picking and further maturing of the crop. Bradstreet's telegraphic reports mention light frosts in parts of Tennessee, Arkansas and northern Texas, which will most probably kill off all second growth and destroy the chance for top crop in those states.

The following percentage of each state's crop is reported still fruiting, and liable to make top crop: North Carolina, 30 per cent; South Carolina, 20; Georgia, 23; Alabama, 16; Mississippi, 20; Louisana, 18; Texas, 45; Arkansas, 25, and Tennessee, 37; the average for the entire country being 26 per cent of the crop.

EXPERIMENT IN GOLD MINING.

The Dredging Boat in North Georgia.

Mr. B. Hedge, of Augusta, Maine, the inventor of the new vacuum dredging process, about to be tried in this state, reached the city on yesterday.

It is proposed, as has already been stated in THE CONSTITUTION, to lift the gravel and gold bearing sands of the rivers running through the gold region of Georgia by this vacuum process to the deck of a dredging boat, and there wash them for gold. It has been determined long ago that the beds of these rivers are very rich in gold deposits, and several attempts have been made to raise them at low enough cost to make it profitable. All attempts have failed up to this time, but Mr. Hedge claims that his new invention will do the work.

A large boat has been built near Leathers's ford by Captain Nobles and Mr. Hedge goes up now to put the machinery in position. He says he can raise and mine with this machinery from two to three hundred tons per day, at a cost of from fifteen to eighteen dollars. If this is true, there is an immense fortune made for the projectors of this enterprise and immediate and startling development in the yield of bullion in North Georgia. He claims that with this process he can wash 200 pans a minute at a profit of four to five cants per pan. The initial experiment will be made in about two weeks, and until that time all speculation as to the result must lie in abeyance. The spot selected for the experiment is the same selected by President Grant, Secretary Windom and other prominent gentlemen a few years ago when they attempted to make a head and tail dam, and plume a section of the river. They spent about fifty thousand dallars in this attempt when a freshet swept away their dam and they gave up the enterprise. We look with interest to the result of the experiment with the new dredging machinery. The gold is there in vast quantities, and sooner or later some way will be invented to get it out.

FROM HONDURAS.

About Two Hundred Miles of Territory Flooded.

PHILADELPHIA, November 7.—A merchant of Spanish Honduras, arrived in this city yesterday in the fruit steamer D. J. Foley, from ports in British and Spanish Honduras. In relation to the floods in Spanish Honduras, flooding about two hundred miles of the territory extending back from Paerto Cortez, Mr. Yates says: A heavy rain had fallen for several days previous to October 20th, causing immense floods, and sweeping away bridges and portions of the only railroad in the country which runs from Puerto Cortez, 36 miles into the interior. This road was built by the government at a cost of $15,000,000, and leased to a company. The damages to the road is $10,000,000, and it is feared that the government will not be able to rebuild it. As the road was an important adjunct to the fruit trade, gathering the fruit from the back country and delivering it at Puerto Cortez, the only port in the country, the disaster and the improbability of its repair will seriously interfere with fruit operations there. The number of persons who lost their lives by the flood is said to be 500, though not definitely known; a report to that effect had been received when the gentleman sailed. It was known, however, that towns and villages and the entire fruit district were submerged and partly swept away. The loss of live stock is also a very heavy total. The loss sustained, including the damage to the railroad is, estimated at $20,000,000.

FALL RIVER.

The Operatives Moving for Better Wages.

FALL RIVER, Mass., November 7.—Secretary Howard will on Monday issue a call for a meeting of the Spinners' union Tuesday. He says: "Our present inaction is destined to bear ill fruit. Every industry participates in the present prosperity except cotton operatives. Wages are no higher than in 1877, though their purchasing power has depreciated 15 to 20 per cent since that time. The satisfactory reports of corporations relative to their year's business, combined with the present active and remunerative condition of the print cloth market, would fully justify operatives in asking more wages." Among the business of the meeting will be the coming convention in Pittsburg and the report of delegates from the National spinners' convention.

The Bandit Esposito.

NEW ORLEANS, November 7.—The Italian bandit Guiseppe Esposito, arrested here some time ago, and finally delivered to the Italian agents in New York, to-day, through his counsel, filed in his true name, Guiseppe Esposito Rondazzo, residing in the city of Paleamo, and known there under the name of Antonio Centanzo, a suit against Angelo Conzeno, of this city, for $70,000 on account of former partnership in the fruit business.

Purging Himself of Contempt.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., November 7.—In the supreme court on Saturday, Roger A. Pryor, counsel in the Sprague case, purged himself of contempt by apologizing for the attachment taking out in New York.

STARRY SCAPEGOATS.

CORKHILL'S ATTEMPT TO SHIFT BLAINE TO MACVEAGH.

Lively and Spicy Arguments on the Motion to Quash Informations—Intimations of Neglect on One Side and Connivance on the Other—A Demand for a Square Showing Up.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

WASHINGTON, November 7.—The argument now going on in the pending star route case is of vital importance to all the proceedings against the ring. The truth is, that the government has been guilty of delay, and the question is, who is responsible? There is no justice in trying to shift the blame on District-Attorney Corkhill, although it is charged that there are many indications that he is not wholly free from a guilty connivance with the star route thieves. There is no necessity to consider the matter and there is no proof to sustain such a charge. It was the fault of the lawyers having the matter in charge that he was permitted to adjourn the grand jury without submitting to them the evidence in the government's possession. As the matter stands it is thought by the government's counsel that the grand jury cannot find any indictment, for by a strange perversion of all ideas of the character of a grand inquest, they appear to have determined that it is their duty to examine all the testimony in every case presented to them. In other words, to try the case. This determination, it is said, was arrived at in the Howgate case, and if the precedent thus established is to be followed, the country might as well bid good-bye to seeing the thieves indicted at this term of the court. They are perfectly safe from this grand jury, and in the meantime the statute of limitations will run against several more of the cases that have been prepared by the special agents and detectives. Mr. Corkhill was under suspicion before president Garfield was shot, rightly or wrongly, and it had been determined that his successor should be appointed during the president's absence from Washington. His explanation made in the court to-day shows that, notwithstanding all the suspicions against him, he was permitted by the government's counsel to do as he pleased. His explanation may be true, but some weeks since the attorney general denied its truth, and now there has been raised a question of veracity between the two. Whether it is true or not, the fact that the attorney general and the president suspected him, and that Colonel Cook himself denounced him as an ally of the star route thieves, ought to have suggested the wisdom of watching him in his dealing with the grand jury. Colonel Corkhill has made it necessary for Mr. MacVeagh to reply, and to give the truth of the story of his connection with the star route cases. If the district attorney has told the truth, Mr. MacVeagh has grossly deceived many people who have implicitly believed him. If Mr. MacVeagh has told the truth in his private conversations here, Colonel Corkhill has been guilty of gross misrepresentations in the presence of the court to-day. The country is interested in knowing precisely where the truth lies. If all that the district attorney has said be truths, the department of justice has neglected its duties, and has not prosecuted the star route cases with the vigor essential to success. As matters stand now, it is not expected that these prosecutions will amount to anything if Judge Cox quashes the information in the Santa Fe case, and whoever is responsible for this state of things ought to be dragged out into the light.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, November 7.—At the opening of the criminal court thismorning District-Attorney Corkhill made apersonal explanation of the charges against him of want in interest in the star route prosecution, that he had been relax, neglectful and inattentive to his duty in that respect. He said that the attorney general had on the 1st of June notified him that the investigation was in progress in the post-office department in connection with the star route cases, and that persons engaged in the investigation desired the appointment of Mr. Cook, and he thought it proper to notify him (Corkhill) of Cook's appointment. Had a long conversation with MacVeagh, in which Mr. Cook's appointment was entirely satisfactory to him, but he desired his own position properly and plainly defined, that he was ready and willing to perform any service required of him, but that the delay in the appointment of a marshal had given him all the business he could attend to. The attorney general not only assented, but said no officer so situated could give the necessary care and attention demanded by the star route investigation. Cook was formally appointed. He had never given himself out as his (Corkhill's) assistant, but as special assistant attorney for the United States, charged with the prosecution of the star route cases. He, (Corkhill) therefore, had not been consulted in connection with the prosecution. Cook's consultations had all been with the attorney general, whose assistant he properly claimed to be. It would be seen that he (Corkhill) could know nothing of the case or be in the slightest degree responsible for it. He also defended his action in adjourning the grand jury from the 19th of September to October 3d, and said on July 15th that the counsel for the defense in the star route cases came into court with the remarkable motion that the case be presented to the grand jury and that Cook, who was the only man who could speak for the government, stated that it was his intention after summer was over to present the same cases to the grand jury. It was then his intention, as the court knew, to adjourn the grand jury to the first Monday in October. The assault on the president had, however, occurred, and he had a consultation with Judge Cox, and the grand jury was adjourned to September 12th. Then it was called and remained in session till September 19th, doing no business except examining a small pension case. The grand jury was then respited for two weeks according with the previous understanding. At this time he had no knowledge that there was any immediate intention to present the star route cases to this grand jury, but had the best reason to suppose that there was not. He called upon Attorney-General MacVeagh on September the 5th, and informed him he would have no business for the grand jury when it assembled, and if any of the star-route cases were ready for presentation the grand jury was at his service for three weeks, otherwise he would adjourn the grand jury for three weeks. The attorney general told him that since the president's assassination he had not given the star route cases his special attention; that he knew nothing of them, and that he (Corkhill) need not bother himself about them, that when his services or those of the grand jury were required he would be notified by the person having special charge of them. Under such circumstances the grand jury was respited for two weeks. On September 25th was informed by Cook that Mr. MacVeagh wished to see him, and in company with Cook called on the attorney general and was requested to sign the criminal information. Then protested against abuse which he had been receiving and against the insinuations which have been published about the adjournment of the grand jury, and that if the attorney general, as the superior officer, made a statement of the simple facts the abuse would be at once silenced. Mr. MacVeagh said it was true that he (Corkhill) had called upon him and informed him of the proposed adjournment of the grand jury, but that he was under the impression that he had told him to see Mr. Cook. He (Corkhill) assured him that such was not the case, and the conversation ended. It had been known to every one connected with the star route cases that the grand jury had adjourned on the day of its adjournment; and it was equally well known that on intimation to himself, or to the court, the grand jury would have been resumed without one day's delay. He desired therefore to state plainly, first, that he was now and had been ignorant of every fact connected with the star route cases; second, that the adjournment of the grand jury till the first Monday in October was decided upon and directed on July 19th without any reference to the star route cases; third, that it would have been called immediately if it had been desired; fourth, that before the grand jury adjourned he called on the attorney general and informed him of the proposed adjournment, and asked him a direct question whether any of the star route cases were ready, and that the attorney general's reply was that he (Corkhill) had nothing to do with them, and that when his services were needed he would be notified. Judge Cox remarked that so far as the facts stated by Corkhill had come within his personal experience, the statement conformed substantially to his recollection.

Mr. Cook, in opening the argument for the prosecution on the motion to strike out the information, after viewing the preliminary step taken in preparing the case for prosecution, said: "It is very true that if the motion to strike out the information from the files were granted, if the order of the court were rescinded, all subsequent acts must be involved, and accompanying the orders issued, the court would not quash an indictment except in the clearest cases. In this instance it is manifest that a motion to quash would not be entertained." He referred to Colonel Ingersoll's attack on Colonel Bliss, and said that his Brother Ingersoll had derived his ignorance from the play-house on which his dogmatic anecdotes were based. He characterized the conduct of the case by the defendants as inappropriate, and read from various authorities to sustain his argument. There was, he claimed, not the slightest doubt that proceedings by information were as ancient as the history of common law, and for the welfare of the government. In reply to Mr. Ingersoll's comparison to the proceedings of the star chamber, Colonel Cook maintained that the proceedings were such, and convenient ones, and no more likely to be absurd than the accusations of the grand jury. No information, he said, could be touched by the grand jury or the court, except through the hands of government officers obliged to faitafully serve the people. The law provided specifically by whom this information should be cited; heads of the department of justice and the post-office department, and it came into this court through these officers.

A MODEL INVESTMENT.

The Suwanee Coal Mines of Tennessee, and What They are Doing.

In a conversation with Mr. John H. Inman on yesterday, we learned that the Suwanee coal and iron mines, which were purchased a short time ago by Mr. Inman and some other capitalists at a cost of $2,750,000, have proved a most gratifying success.

The monthly output of coal for October was the largest ever known, and the new company, being greatly pleased with the practical workings of the mines, are rapidly increasing their capacity up to two thousand tons per day. The mine is one of the best in the country, and at a yield of two thousand tons per day would last for six or seven generations. The capacity is now about fourteen hundred tons a day, and the demand in Tennessee is so great that the company has not been able to spare any for the Atlanta market, but with increased capacity will, probably, reach this market next season. The iron furnaces of the company are running on full time, and a meeting of the directory is called in Nashville for Wednesday for the purpose of building three new furnaces at a cost of $225,000. The entire works are now employing about 600 hands and want from one to two hundred more able-bodied laborers, to whom high wages will be paid. Mr. Inman left yesterday for the mines and for Nashville, and says that the success that has attended this large investment in the south is causing much inquiry and will result in large amounts of capital being put into the south within the next twelve months. While the mines are doubtless the largest and best in the south we suspect there is as much in the man as there is in the mine.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

A Large Dock in Hoboken Burned.

NEW YORK, November 7.—A very destructive fire occurred in Hoboken this afternoon, totally destroying what was known as Eagle Dock, owned by the Hoboken dock co., of Hamburg, and leased by the Wilson and Eagle steamship company. Also two full cargoes of merchandise, one just unloaded from the Wilson line steamer, Rialto, plying between Hoboken and Hull, England. The other was in readiness for the National line steamer, to sail in a few days for London and Liverpool. Most of the merchandise, including a large quantity of steel rails and cotton, was owned by New York merchants. The dock is fully insured. It was constructed eight years ago at a cost of $256,000, and was 710 feet in length and 80 feet in width. Several cargoes and lighters lying in close proximity to the fire were also destroyed.

New York Items.

NEW YORK, November 7.—Sunday the German delegates were the guests of the consul general from Germany at his residence on Staten Island. In the evening, accompanied by Walker Blaine, they started for Utica for the purpose of visiting Baron Von Steuben's grave. They will attend a state ball to be given here, to-morrow evening, in their honor.

Dr. Ambrose Goetz, a Russian political fugitive, practicing medicine here, was found dead in bed. It is supposed to be a suicide. The doctor was well to do in St. Petersburg, but becoming an advocate of advanced liberal opinions, was forced to fly, and his property confiscated. His wife and child in Russia survive him.

H. B. Claflin & Co., owing to systematic robberies, had John Newbold, porter, arrested.

Found Murdered.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

OMAHA, November 7.—Colonel Smith, clerk of the United States circuit court, was found murdered just outside of his office door yesterday. He was a highly respected citizen, prominent in social reforms and church work and a member of the G. A. R. There is intense feeling on the part of the citizens, and at a meeting yesterday afternoon $5,000 were raised and offered as a reward for the detetion and conviction of the murderer or murdere

Training Stable Burned.

DANVILLE, Ky., November 7.—The training stable of Warren A. Russell was destroyed by fire and a number of valuable horses burned. Among them L. M. Field's fine stalion, Austral, by imported Australia dam, colt by Vandal, and a fine mare belonging to Dr. J. P. Warren

NASHVILLE, November 7.—Massy Hill, colored, who attempted a rape on a little girl near Manchester, was taken from jail by a mob, last night, and nehed.

THE NASTY NINTH.

THEIR BEASTLY CONDUCT IN THE STREETS OF RICHMOND.

RICHMOND, November 7.—The military commissioners now here investigating the alleged misconduct of the members of the Ninth Massachusetts regiment, refuse to give any information in relation to their investigation, as it has not been concluded. The report will be made upon their return to Massachusetts to the adjutant general of that state under whose orders they came south. Mayor Carrington, who has been almost constantly with the commissioners during their stay in Richmond, has prepared a statement, giving his views of the result of the investigation, but that has also been refused. The gist of the testimony is that the number of soldiers of the regiment engaged in the alleged misconduct was from 50 to 75; that outrageous advances were made towards ladies in the public streets; that many of the soldiers paraded one of the main streets, in broad day light, with negro women of the lowest character on their arms, embracing and kissing them; that they took possession of vehicles, putting the drivers off; that they invaded bar-rooms, and helped themselves, refusing to pay for drinks, and committed many other acts of wantonness. The officers composing the commission have shown every disposition to make their investigation as full and searching as possible, and their report will doubtless prove that they have faithfully discharged their unpleasant duty. It can only be here added that, all statements to the contrary notwithstanding, there is nothing known upon which even an opinion can be based as to what that report will be or what recommendations, if any, will accompany it. The commission didn't leave last evening, as they desired to confer with General Fitzhugh Lee upon matters appertaining to the inquiry. They expect to leave for Washington this evening.

BOSTON, November 7.—The colonel of the Massachusetts Ninth has received a lettter from Colonel Grub, of the New Jersey battalion, denying that the reports detrimental to the Massachusetts regiment were originated or circulated by him or any member of his battalion. He says as a field officer of the day he had nothing to report of the Ninth Massachusetts except their excellent drill and states that the injurious reports emanated from the editorial columns of the Richmond journals.

GALVESTON, November 7.—A special to the News from Fort Davis says the entire day was consumed by the defense in a searching cross examination of Colonel Shafter. Various steps relating to Lieutenant Flipper's arrest were reviewed without material contradictions Captain Barber, for the defense, claims that he is endeavoring to present all the points connected with the case without a desire to conceal anything. He brought forward testimony to show that the accused had been persecuted by Colonel Shafter in ordering articles of value in his possession to be taken, without leaving him sufficient bedding, and had taken pains to prevent any one seeing him without his permission, which was seldom given. Shafter testified that he had not ordered the accused to be deprived of jewelry, but had ordered everything else of value to be taken charge of; that he had ordered bedding to be furnished, and was not aware until advised that the order had not been executed; that he had ordered an extra guard to be placed at the cell window and had also given an order that no one without permission be allowed to converse with him, and that the servant's trunk had been taken from his room and searched and several packages of paper found in her possession, a part of them being the identical papers, checks, etc., he was looking for, though she had stoutly denied any knowledge of their whereabouts. She admitted that he had given them to her a few days previously for safe keeping. Upon being asked if a promise had not been made to furnish comfortable quarters at the post to the woman if she would tell all she knew, Colonel Shafter replied, "No." He had told her she would probably go to the penitentiary for her share in the matter. Captain Barber laid the ground for impeaching the question whether Colonel Shafter had not testified differently before the United States commissioner as to where the papers were found. Colonel Shafter was asked if he didn't make an affidavit before the commissioner for her arrest, stating that she had property in her possession which she had attained without the authority of any government agent, to which he replied that the affidavit would show. The theory of the defense is still in conjecture.

ALL AROUND US.

What the People of the State are Doing.

ALBANY, November 5.—Before this reaches you, you will doubtless have received intelligence of the death of Hon. W. O. Fleming, judge of the Albany circuit, which sad event occurred yesterday in Bainbridge at 2:30 o'clock p.m. Though not altogether unexpected, his death was yet a sad surprise to the members of the bar and his many friends here, who had been encouraged by recent reports of improvement in his condition to hope for his complete recovery. Of a man so well and widely known as Judge Fleming, but little can be said that would convey any additional information as to his character and qualities. During his brief tenure of office he had succeeded in winning the esteem and regard, not merely of the entiie bar of the circuit, but of all with whom his official duties brought him in contact. The same genial courtesy and unaffected sympathy which marked his intercourse with all men in private station, accompanied him on the bench, and enabled him to show how easy it was to maintain the dignity of his position, and enforce respect to his judicial character without assuming the constant air and tone of authority; and the courts in which he presided were always marked by the strictest order and decorum. But, of course in a brief communication like this, we cannot even give a sketch of the character and services of a man like Judge Fleming. From the bar of the circuit, and his many friends and neighbors in Bainbridge—his home—he will beyond doubt receive fit and ample testimonials to both. The bare mention of his death, however, as an item of news, caused our pen almost insensibly to stray into the language of eulogy, so natural to employ at the mention of a man whom to know was at once to love, and esteem.——A large number of people in this section are anxiously awaiting the expected reduction in transportation rates, to attend the exposition. Very few have gone so far. Mrs. Thornbury, the principal of one of the most popular and well attended private schools in southwest Georgia, and her accomplished assistant, Miss Emma Chase, left for the exposition last Thursday, carrying with them specimens of the work of their pupils in the Kindergarten department, of which the latter has charge.——Coal sells at 35 cents per bushel in Albany. Its consumption, instead of pine, is now becoming common among many of our citizens.——The delayed piping for the artesian well has not arrived yet and work on it has been suspended for several weeks past on account of it.

EASTMAN, November 5.—Two jail birds will probably be wanting, when their cases are called for trial next week, in the superior court. John James (if we mistake not the name) for carrying concealed weapons, and Isaiah Richardson, for assault with intent to murder, were incarcerated here last night. It seems the sheriff permitted them to remain in the jail corridor, instead of locking them in their cells. By some means or other they got hold of a file, and during the night filed through the iron bars of the corridor and dug through the brick wall of the jail, thus effecting their escape. Joe Lathan, who is confied for murder, says he could have escaped also if he had desired to do so.

DAWSON, November 6.—Mr. J. T. Lee is erecting a neat cottage home on Stonewall street. Mr. J. P. Sharpe is enlarging and improving his residence on Johnson street.——Captain Wm. Howe's youngest child died a few days since, having never recovered from an attack of measles last summer.——Our young friend and townsman, Mr. Oscar Crouch, is the happiest man in town. Cause: a beautiful little daughter just one day old.

ALBANY, November 6.—A negro yeaterday afternoon while sitting in a buggy on Broad street began to handle a pistol lying in the foot of the buggy. The weapon accidentally went off and broke one of the hind legs of a fine horse hitched to the buggy, belonging to Mr. Joe Ligsay of Lee & Co. The animal was of course, ruined.——A young man named Howard, a bill poster for Coup's circus, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with the larceny of a gold watch and chasn and gold sleeve buttons from a room in the Bogen house in this city. After remaining under arrest a short while, on promise of his liberty and no prosecution, he confessed the crime and surrendered the stolen property. We do not know who made him the above promises, etc.——The board of examiners of West Point applicants from this district, finished their work yesterday. They recommended B. H. Sheffield, of Early county and W. L. Taylor of Thomas county, as alternate.

ROME, November 6.—The funeral of Mrs. S. E. Axson, which took place at the Presbyterian church yesterday, was attended by a vast concourse of friends of the deceased lady. Rev. G. A. Nunnally, Rev. J. E. Evans and Rev. J. M. M. Caldwell participating in the funeral services.——A Sunday-school convention will be held at the opera house on December 3d.——The handsome oil portrait of Captain E. A. Williams, former president of the Young Men's library association, who died last year, which was painted by Mrs. T. L. Robinson, and presented to the association, now adorns the walls of the library, and is much admired.——Senator Slater, of Oregon, is in the city.——Dr. John Hillyer, of Texas, preached in the Baptist church this morning.——A large number of Romans expect to visit Atlanta next Saturday—Rome's day at the exposition. Among those who deserve great credit for getting up the excursion is Mr. James R. Murrell, of the cotton exchange.——The Cherokee artillery's opening ball occurs on next Thursday evening.——Barlow, Wilson, Primrose and West's minstrels played to a $500 house at the Nevin opera house Friday evening.——The Sargent house formerly the Rome hotel, has been thoroughly renovated and refurnished, and, under the management of Mr. Joseph H. Sargent, will hereafter be run in first class style.——The low rates of fare will induce a great many of our people to visit the exposition.

A SUIT FOR MR. ATKINSON

Made in a Single Day by the Willimantic Company.

The fast machinery of the Willimantic linen company was put to a test again yesterday. The novel and difficult feat of making a suit of clothes from seed cotton in a single day, was again attempted and accomplished. It has been known for several days that the Willimantic would make a suit of clothes for the Hon. Edward Atkinson, and that his party would pick the cotton that was to be used. Yesterday morning at six o'clock Mr. Atkinson, Governor Colquitt and several other distinguished gentlemen went out to the grounds, but the continued rain made it impossible for them to pick the cotton. After waiting until after eight o'clock it was determined to use some cotton that had been picked on Saturday. This cotton, however, had been rained on and was wet. However, it was put into the gin at fifteen minutes before 9 and at three minutes after nine had reached the picker. It was at the carder at 9:19, at the slubber at 10:05, spinning at 10:20, and weaving at 10:53. At 12:45 it was at Thomas's dye house being dyed. At 2:05 Mr. Grosse, the well known Atlanta tailor, was cutting out the suit, and at 6:15 the suit was finished, carried at once to the rtsidence of Mr. Kimball where Mr. Atkinson was and at half past seven he had it on. The sewing was done on the famous Wheeler & Wilson Machines, through the kindness of Mr. Weyburn, and the weaving was done on a Crompton loom by Mr J. A. Clarke. This scores another success for all concerned.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the City Fathers at Last Night's Meeting.

The city council convened in regular session last night. Present, Mayor English, presiding, and all the members except Councilman Pinson, who is sick.

Councilman Jones asked permission to introduce to the mayor and general council, Captain John G. Smith, mayor of Eufaula, Alabama, who was, in a neat speech by Mayor English, welcomed to the Atlanta council chamber. Mayor Smith was then invited to a seat on the rostrum beside Atlanta's mayor, and when he passed up the members of the council arose to their feet.

The following petitions were read and referred to their appropriate committees: For stepping stones, the young men's library association; for retail liquor licences, Karwisch & Co, at 91 Decatur street, and M. J. Holland, at 418 Marietta street; for an office, the tax receivers; also a petition from A. C. & B. F. Wyly & Co., and others doing business on Alabama street, asking that the name of that street be changed to Front street.

Reports submitted: Of the board of health; of the finance committee, to which the books of the various city officials had been referred; of the committee upon contested claims and litigation, recommending the payment of $100 to Robert Shaw, who asked $500 for damage done him by a rotten plank over a sewer at the corner of Garnet and Forsyth streets.

Resolutions passed, authorizing the purchase of three stoves for the stockade. Also the following offered by Councilman Knapp:

Whereas, On the twenty-third day of this month (November) there is to be held in the city of Atlanta, a convention of the National association of railroad traveling and passenger agents of the United States and Canada:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by his honor, the mayor, from the council, to proceed to Chattanooga, there meet the members of the convention, and tender to them a welcome to our city.

This resolution prevailed and the mayor named the following as his committee: Councilmen Knapp, Jones and Johnson.

Upon motion the council adjourned

General Sherman's Visit.

The following dispatch was received on yesterday, from General Sherman, in response to a dispatch of inquiry from Mr. Kimball:

WASHINGTON, D. C., November, 7.—H. I. Kimball, Director-General: Your dispatch of yesterday is received, and I owe you an apology for not answering direct your kind invitation for me to attend the opening exercises of the exposition on the fifth of October, but I did in person, and by letter, advise with Senator Brown and Governor Colquitt, who thought November a better time for my contemplated attendance. I am ready to come with my aids any day you may name, about the end of this week or beginning of next.

W. T. SHERMAN, General.

Director-General Kimball has replied, designating next Tuesday, the 15th, as the day most desirable for the proposed visit of the general of the army, and he will consequently be here on that day.

AT THE EXPOSITION.

FACTS AND INCIDENTS OF THE DAY NOTED.

A Very Good Crowd in Attendance, Considering the Weather—Mexican Veterans' Day—General Sherman to Attend—A Fine Picture on Exhibition—Numerous Attractions.

The disagreeable weather of yesterday was preventive of a full attendance upon the exposition, although the buildings by no means presented a deserted appearance. Blue Mondays are not at all unusual occurrences at prolonged exhibitions, nor to be wondered at. The exhibitors are mostly veterans in such affairs, and know how to calculate causes and effects in the matter of attendance.

Everybody is hopeful of the future in this regard. They look for a large arrival by the State road to-day on account of the one-cent rate, and naturally believe that from this time on the low fares will give a handsome attendance every day. There can be no question that the entire country is becoming interested in the splendor and the success of the exposition. The press is giving full space and consideration to the voluntary testimony of many distinguished observers, to the effect that this is a most remarkable event in the industrial history of America. From all quarters of the union men of practical ideas, of enterprise and capital are being urged to visit the exposition, and we believe they will come. Indeed, they are coming daily, and the general public is sure to follow in their wake.

By reference to the matters presented below by our reporters it will be seen that the management and the exhibitors are working in complete harmony to offer every attraction that can tend to the success of the exposition. Director-General Kimball's wonderful resources are being made manifest, and he is omitting no special feature that can interest the people and arouse popular enthusiasm. We look confidently to the fullest consummation of his plans and their pronounced success.

The Sheep Show.

This is the week set apart for the special show of sheep, goats and hogs. As yet, most of the entries have not arrived, but they will arrive some time to-day.

Mr. A. H. Davenport, of Lexington, Ky., has on the grounds twenty-five as fine Southdown sheep as one would wish to see. They are all in excellent condition and are much admired.

To-day Mr. Richard Peters, of Atlanta, will have out some of the finest Merino sheep in the south, a lot of Angora goats, and some Essex hogs. There are other exhibits expected. Mr. Peters has done a great deal to promote sheep husbandry in Georgia and he will show some of the best specimens of fin sheep to be seen anywhere. His goats and hogs are also said to be excellent by those who are judges of such animals.

The gentlemen chosen to act as judges in this special exhibit will begin their rounds at 11 o'clock to-morrow, and will make the awards of premiums offered in the catalogue.

Sheep raising has become a practical question in Georgia. The gentlemen who will be here with their exhibits are authority on this question. The fine breeds of hogs and the superior goats will also attract attention from the visitors to the exposition who are interested in the improved methods of husbandry in Georgia.

The New England Exhibitors

Will hold a meeting in the judges' hall at 11 o'clock this morning. A full attendance is desired, as there will be questions of importance brought up for consideration.

Cheap Rates.

To-day the cheaper railroad rates will go into effect. Excellent results are looked for at once in the increase of the crowd. But for the rain there would have been a good attendance yesterday. The skies promise well for to-day and the trains may be looked for with heavy loads. The one-cent a mile rate will, we hear, bring big crowds from Dalton, Rome and other towns toward Chattanooga, while Mr. Wadley's reduction in the way of rates for excursions will give southern Georgia a chance. The general passenger and ticket agents who meet here to-day will discuss the question of lower through rates from distant points. Prospects for favorable action on their part are good. Everything seems to be working better for the exposition now than at any time since it opened.

A gentleman who has just returned from Macon says that the people there are only waiting for cool weather to set in to come in great numbers. He says that the ridiculous stories of extortion in Atlanta which were largely circulated in southern Georgia have been effectually contradicted. The people there known that they can come here and enjoy a week in Atlanta, see everything at the exposition, and go home very little poorer.

The Passenger Agents'

MEETING IN ATLANTA TO-DAY.

The regular fall meeting of the general passenger and ticket agents of the south and west was to have been held in Memphis to-morrow, but some time ago a petition was circulated among the agents to have the meeting changed to Atlanta. It received enough signatures to secure the end proposed, and the meeting will be held at Exposition hotel to-day at 11 o'clock. The date for the regular meeting could not be changed and so this meeting was called a day in advance. When the convention meets to-day, it can resolve to go on with the regular meeting to-morrow.

Few of the agents have yet arrived, but there will be a good list coming in on the early trains to-day. The meeting will be called to order at 11, but it is probable that the most important business will not come up until to-morrow. The object of the meeting is to fix regular fall through rates in the south and west. A question of importance which will be considered is that of lower rates to the exposition. It is to be hoped that the liberal and enterprising men who compose the association will do their best for the great show that thousands would visit every week if rates were low enough.

On the twenty-third of this month there will be a general meeting of ticket agents from all parts of the country and a large attendance is ex e

An Important Dispatch

SENT IN THE NAME OF THE NEW ENGLAND PARTY.

Hon. Edward Atkinson and Mr. Richard Garsed united Sunday night in sending the following telegram to the associated press. The gentlemen are enthusiastic in their praise of the exposition, and will do much to further its success:

The first committee of the New England cotton manufacturers and their friends have seperated, mostly going home they concur in this opinion: that the meeting of the national cotton planters' association to be held December 6th—three to six hundred in number—should be met by an equal number of manufacturers from the north. They affirm that if this can be brought about, it alone will fully justify the cotton exposition. They have found that the tools and machines for planting and preparing cotton for the spinner are of the utmost interest and importance to both the grower and the spinner; they have found an exhibition of cotton machinery, such as has never before been brought together in this country, or elsewhere. They have found in the annex building, evidence of the natural resources of this southern section in agriculture, in commerce, in minerals and timber, which could not be equaled in any other equal area of the earth's surface, and in the use to which these resources will shortly be applied, they find promise of a vastly greater number of customers for their own mills than they expect to find competitors in southern mills. They have met the southern manufaturers with a hearty good will and earnest wish for their success, of which samples of their goods give promise. They find reason to send back from the north, as soon as they re mously in the judgment that there is greater promise of improvement in many directions, but especially in the handling of cotton, which will emanate from this exhibition than from any one ever held before. They earnestly hope that crowds from the north will meet the crowds from the south, that the beneficent influence of this meeting may extend beyond material interests, and work a common good for our common country.

The Memorial Fund.

The following is the list of contributors to the Garfield memorial fund for yesterday: Mrs. Hattie Dunning, P. Lynch, W. C. Hammond, W. W. Draper, H. Bullock, J. M. Lloyd, D. A. Shumate, A. W. Farnham, Thomas Spalding, B. H. Hill, Jr., Georgia; A. P. Silva, New Mexico; A. A. Velie, Illinois; R. M. White, Mrs. L. A. Ault, Ohio; Willie Walker, Missouri; John L. Shepherd, Viginia; John W. Daniels, South Carolina.

The Railroad Men.

The following circular has been sent out. It will bring a big crowd to the exposition on the 23d:

OFFICE SECRETARY TRAVELING AND PASSENGER AGENTS' ASSOCIATION, Indianapolis, November 1, 1881. A special meeting of the above association has been called at Exposition hall, Atlanta, Georgia, on Wedneseay, November 23, 1881, by the following members:

E. H. Smith, Howard J. Ball, S. F. Hubbard, David Barwald, John Singleton, J. F. McCarthy, T. H. Levering, Wm. McGibney, J. Clark Smith, John R. Pott, A. B. Wrenn, Rob't Air, J. A. S. Reed, Ed. F. Sisson, John K. Hogan, H. Henderson.

The object of the above meeting is to accept an invitation from Governor Colquitt, President H. I. Kimball, director general, and B. W. Wrenn, chief of transportation, to visit the International cotton exposition, and for no other purpose. Transportation will be furnished to parties and their wives from Washington D. C., Cincinnati or Louisville, upon application to J. D. Welsh, 127 Vine street, Cincinnati. Yours truly,

WM. B. TINNEY, Secretary.

The Coming Fun.

A NEW SET OF ATTRACTIONS PLACED BEFORE THE PUBLIC.

THE CONSTITUTION is enabled to give, this morning, the dates of several leading attractions of the exposition.

The first will be Mexican veterans' day, which will be next Tuesday, and will be an occasion of great interest. Great preparations have been made and will be completed in a day or two.

General Sherman, who on account of a trip to the west, was unable to be here on opening day telegraphed Director-General Kimball yesterday that he would come on any day that the management might name. The day for exercises especially in his honor has not been named, but it is understood that he will be here Monday night or Tuesday, and that he will participate in the exercises on Mexican veterans' day.

Drummers' day will come on the 30th. The national convention of commercial travelers will meet on that day, and from the unique character of the occasion the day may be booked for one of the largest crowds of the three months.

Arrangements have been made for a meeting of firemen to be held at the exposition on the 28th inst. This day and occasion will be worked up especially, and an overwhelming crowd will certainly be here.

The mayors and ex-mayors of the United States and Canada will have a day on Friday, December the 9th, and as all will be invited and urged to attend, a large gathering is expected. No better opportunity will ever be offered for these city officials to come together, exchange views, get acquainted, and have a good time generally.

In consequence of the great interest in the exposition proper on the part of all visitors, it has been decided to abandon the incidental weekly shows that are announced in the programme. There will consequently be no bench, poultry or dairy show.

The Exposition Hotel.

ITS MANAGEMENT HIGHLY COMMENDED BY THE GUESTS.

The guests of the Exposition hotel have voluntarily issued the following splendid testimonial to the excellence of the management:

EXPOSITION HOTEL, Atlanta, Ga., November 7.—Presuming that a great majority of the visitors to the exposition are entirely ignorant of the fine accommodations afforded at the new Exposition hotel, kept by one of the best and most genial of landlords, Phil F. Brown, we, his guests, would call their attention to the fact, and suggest the propriety of a visit at the first opportunity that they may familiarize themselves with the capacious hotel and its many attractive features. We are convinced that many would remain its permanent guests while in Atlanta. Many of his patrons have been at the hotel since it was first opened and their opinion based on actual facts warrants the assertion that no table can surpass it in variety and quality. All the conveniencies requisite to make a visit agreeable are at the disposal of or are furnished to the guests. Visitors will find all the comforts of home at reasonable prices. We therefore, who know whereof we speak, would invite, in behalf of the proprietor, strangers and residents to visit the Exposition hotel on any evening and see for themselves what we know for a fact—that Brown knows how to keep a hotel and that he is worthy of liberal support and patronage.

Moser's Picture.

THE NEW SOUTH WELCOMING THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH.

Moser's beautiful picture "The new south welcoming the nations of the earth," which was unveiled in Judges' hall on Governors' day, is the subject of much admiration and praise. The new south is represented by a beautiful brunette girl draped in the American flag which falls in graceful folds about a still more graceful figure. Her left hand rests upon a bale of cotton while her right is extended in a welcome to all visitors. Above the "New South" stands uncle Sam, his face beaming with satisfaction as he joins in the welcome and points with pride to the achievevments of the "New South." Columbia, on a seat of state behind a bale of cotton, wich is surmounted with a crown and wreaths, has relaxed her features into a smile of approval. An Indian chief quietly smokes his pipe in the foreground and presents a picture of the most supreme satisfaction. "Clio," with pen and tablet in hand, sits eager to catch and record each word of praise of the grand and glorious event in the history of the south. The familiar faces of "Uncle Remus" and "Old Si" peep from opposite sides of the tableau, which, with its marble columns, brocaded curtains, plush carpets, etc., etc., rises from the very midst of a cotton field, from which negroes are picking the great staple. It is in placing upon canvas the features of the old slaves, the true negroes, that Mr. Moser displays his greatest ability, and no man who is familiar with negro ways can look upon the picture in Judges' hall, and fail to smile at the ood-natured faces of the old darkies, who are worked into the picture, and which go so far toward making it a success. The left hand side of the picture represents the agricultural features of the south; a scene of Mississippi cotton country stretches away toward a dim horizon, showing the "big house", of the planter, the negro quarters, the modern cotton presses, that the old screw will soon be numbered among the things that were, and a brief view of the Mississippi river with boats plying in the distance.

Exposition Notes.

—Next Thursday is the first excursion day for local stations between Kingston and Chattanooga at one cent per mile. The people clamored for low rates, and Governor Brown ordered them and will continue them through the exposition if the people will come and visit the exposition.

—We are waiting to hear when we can expect an excursion from the Air-Line. Colonel Pope is probably arranging to advertise one, and when it comes it will be a big one.

—Athens will send us a fine crowd at a low rate.

—Columbus will send an immense crowd.

—The exposition managers are getting up some nice advertising matter for distribution throughout the country.

—Colonel P. W. Mead, representing the American Institute fair of New York, was present on the exposition grounds yesterday. With him also we find Major A. C. Carroll, proprietor of the Mount Vernon cotton mills, of Baltimore. Both gentlemen are well pleased with the exposition.

—Captain Isaac Hermon, from Sandersville, is in the city on a visit to the cotton exposition.

—The receipts at the gates Saturday were over $1,500, indicating a crowd of 5,000 or more.

—A bright sun and crisp air to-day will put 8,000 people on the grounds.

—Go and see the sheep, goats and hogs. They are in the stables on the south side of the grounds.

—Georgia's exhibit grows more attractive every day. It is in the center of the main building, upstairs.

—There are thirty-two policemen and twenty watchmen.

—The grounds are closed on Sunday.

—Cincinnati is preparing a huge excursion.

—The beautiful display of rice and rare products from the Altamaha river shown in the railroad building was collected and brought to the exposition by Mr. J. M. Couper, of Brunswick, from his own and neighboring plantations. The display of rice is superb and will compare with any.

—The railroad building has been greatly beautified by the fountain erected by the Western and Atlantic railroad. It is a gem and is much admired.

Mr. William Fox, of Leisburg, Florida, will reach Atlanta to-night with a large party of Floridians, who are coming up to take in the exposition. It is said that there are about fifty persons in this excursion.

The stock embraces some of the most elegant pieces of Beavers and French Worsteds with Trimmings to correspond, and cannot fail to impress those who inspect it with being by far the most tasty ever brought to the city before. The two suits made by the Willimantic Linen company on governor's day, for Governor Colquitt and Governor Bigelow, were cut and made by Mr. Grosse in less than five hours. Their beauty, fit and taste in make were subjects of universal comment and praise, and many high compliments were passed upon the work by the governors and distinguished visitors who thoroughly examined the suits as they were worn at the receptions on the evening of governor's day. nov 6—2ms.

COTTON MANUFACTURERS

CAN SEE AT THE SPACE OCCUPIED BY George Draper & Son's, of Hopedale, Massachusetts, near the center of the main exposition building, a twister, spooler and reel, built by the Hopedale machine company, containing all the latest improvements; also, a ring filling frame of the best construction for coarse work. The twister and filling frame are supplied with sawyer spindles. The filling frame is supplied with Draper's evener and double adjustable rings. A twister and ring frame, built by the Fales & Jenks machine company, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, having improved Rabbeth spindles, may be seen in operation on fine work. In connection with the exhibit of the Willimantic Spool Cotton company, one side of a frame, built by the Bridesburg manufacturing company, containing sawyer spindles may be seen at the space occupied by that company. I hope to be at the exposition for consultation with any customer or enquirer, the latter part of this week.

BRUTAL OUTRAGE.

BLOOMINGTON, November 5.—This neighborhood is greatly excited over a daring outrage and robbery committed four miles west of the city to-day. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Davis, in the morning, left the residence in charge of Miss Nannie Burton, their niece, and came to Bloomington. On returning, at 2 p. m., they found her bound fast in a chair, with ropes made of strips of linen, which she had been sewing, and insensible from exhaustion and fright. She recovered sufficiently to state that while sewing two men entered the house, seized her, choked and tied her in a chair, and after chloroforming her, robbed the house. Examination showed only a few dollars in money missing. Miss Burton is in a precarious condition from her terrible experience. Should the perpetrators be caught, the populace would make short work of them. They were quite well dressed men, with hard looking faces, and were evidently from some city and experts in crime.

—Greenville, South Carolina, desires to have water-works.

Mr. Martin A. Connolly, a merchant in Oil City, Pa., writes: "I inherited ill health from my parents, who were both short-lived. My wife is a sickly little woman, and has suffered considerably. We have had five children, three of whom died in infancy; the other two a boy four years of age and a girl of seven years, have always been quite puny, weak, and sickly. Sometime ago I read a medical work that spoke of iron as being essential to life, that a want of iron in the blood was the principal cause of ill health. Shortly afterward I saw an advertisement of Brown's Iron Bitters. I determined to try it for myself and family. The result has far exceeded my greatest anticipation. Myself, wife and children, have all grown healthy and strong. Sores, aches and pains, headaches, indigestion and sleeplessness, formerly so common in my family, trouble us no more. Every bottle is worth its weight in gold." nov3d&w1w

The Power of the Press.

In no way is the power of the press more surely shown than in the universal knowledge that has in less than a year, been difused throughout fifty millions of people of the wonderful curative properties of that splendid remedy, Kidney-Wort. And the people from the Atlantic to the Pacific have shown their intelligence and their knowledge of what is in the papers, by already making Kidney-Wort their household remedy for all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels.—Herald.

Time Proves all Things.

A good reputation, to be permanent, must be established upon a solid foundation. The article of real merit rises to the uppermost level of success, not by being puffed into ephemeral notoriety, but by gradually winning its way to public confidence. Evidences of its worth become irresistible, until it finally attains a time honored reputation which none will deny.

Such is the case with Brown's Bronchial Troches, which have for thirty years been recommended by physicians, and are now used so generally, that they have become a pocket, office and houshold necessity with thousands who are troubled with Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Consumptive diseases, and the various Throat Troubles to which singers and public speakers are subject. They will clear and strengthen the voice marvelously.

THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
Atlanta, November 7, 1881.

New York—The cotton market opened quiet this morning, but during the day the months took a downward course, and by the close had developed a weak tone with a loss of four or five points for the future months. The spot market admits of no quotable change; middling 11⅝c.

Net receipts for two days 77,968 bales, against 70,117 bales last year; exports 34,254 bales; last year 53,134 bales; stock 734,177 bales; last year 705,402 bales.

The New York cotton exchange will be closed to-morrow on account of election.

Below we give the opening and closing quotations of cotton futures to-day:

August	12.70@12.72	August	12.63@12.65

Closed weak; sales 68,000 bales.

Liverpool—Futures closed quiet. Spots—Uplands 6,7-16d; Orleans 6 9-16d; sales 15,000 bales, of which 11,300 bales were American; receipts 5,400; American 5,400.

The local cotton market is quite active for spots, and to-day an unusually brisk demand was reported with very satisfactory amount of sales. The tone of the market, regardless of the decline in New York, is considerably firmer, and in some instances higher prices were obtained. At the close, however, it was not thought proper to change our quotations, but any disposition upwards to-morrow will have the effect to raise quotations to some extent. Receipts were light to-day and amount to 781 bales, of which 27 bales were received from wagons. We quote as follows: Good middling 11c; middling 10¾c; strict low middling 10 9-16c; low middling 10½c; strict good ordinary 10⅛c; tinges 10⅜c; good ordinary 9¼c; ordinary 8c.

THE CONSTITUTION
Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 8, 1881.

IN the matter of veracity between McVeagh and Corkhill the country can afford to be patient.

COLLECTOR CLARKE makes a favorable re port to the collector of internal revenue concerning this collection district.

NOTHING else could so beautifully illustrate the beneficent character of a republican administration, than the certainty of a fiasco in the star route cases.

FROM the collocation of facts reported in our dispatches, it is evident that Grant's assistance in President Arthur's Sunday devotions produced the thanksgiving proclamation.

GENERAL SHERMAN is coming to the exposition. It will be in proper order to build him a suit of clothes from cotton grown on the fields over which he rode his war-horse.

BISMARCK has sued an editor for libel. In the language of General Brady, of the star routes, "there is no government existant in which a man is free from slander, so to speak!"

TO SOUTHERN MANUFACTURERS.

We shall print in to-morrow's CONSTITUTION a call for a meeting of the Southern manufacturers' association, from the hands of Mr. Dumont, the secretary of the association.

This is a most important call and we trust will receive the consideration it is entitled to. An adjourned meeting of the New England manufacturers' association will be held here on December 6th, when the cotton planters' association also has its meeting. It is meet and proper that the Southern manufacturers' association should be on hand in full force to welcome the New England manufacturers at the occasion. We understand that there are about sixty members of this association, and there should be five hundred. Those manufacturers who are not members can, we understand, attend the convention by simply sending their names to Mr. N. Dumont, the secretary, at Lowell, N. C. We trust that when the details are arranged as they will be, and a call is published it will be reprinted by the southern press and a full meeting secured.

EVERY INCH A BOSS.

All the indications are that President Arthur, suddenly taking account of his position and the manifest advantages which it gives him, has concluded to set up as a boss on his own account. Playing second fiddle to Conkling, he was incontinently kicked out of the New York custom house by as small a man as Hayes; playing second fiddle to Grant, he was made vice-president of the United States. Such experiences as those were valuable as giving him an insight into the methods of bossism; and now, having been elected president by Guiteau who, in his unique way is a stalwart boss of the most pronounced type, it is but natural that the new president should hasten to take advantage of his position. Our Washington dispatches have already given the readers of THE CONSTITUTION a foretaste of the sensations that are to be brought to the attention of the public under the new order of things.

Mr. Wayne MacVeagh, it will be remembered, has won fame as the resigning member of the cabinet. He went about the streets of Washington grumbling and growling during the late administration. He shook his resignation in little Mr. Billy Chandler's face, and was always upon the point of a quarrel with the good-natured Mr. Blaine. Since Mr. Arthur and the regulation stalwarts came into power, Mr. MacVeagh has had his carefully-composed resignation warmed over every morning in the presence of the newspaper correspondents, so that it has been difficult to say whether the attorney general was in or out of the cabinet. We judge, however, from the attitude of Mr. Arthur that Mr. MacVeagh is still a definite part of the cabinet, and, as such, amenable to presidential discipline. At any rate, Mr. Arthur has disciplined him, and the probability is that Mr. MacVeagh will either resign at once, or employ his leisure moments in finding out what his duties as attorney general are. The account in the dispatches is doubtless considerably modified by the cautious reporters, and if it should ultimately appear that MacVeagh has had his ears pulled or his coat-tails jammed in, the public need not be surprised. The evolution of bossism will finally lead to this sort of business, and the sooner it is inaugurated the sooner the country will enjoy the benefits of genuine republican civil service reform.

Another manifestation of the new president's intention to set himself up as a boss of the bosses, is his visit to New York, on the eve of the election which takes place to-day. It is openly acknowledged by his henchmen that he went to New York to help the state ticket, and while he will not stand around the polls as of yore, and hustle the repeaters up to the ballot-box, he has given the word to the stalwart leaders that the ticket must be heartily supported. The president went to the Fifth Avenue hotel where Conkling, by previous arrangement, was already domiciled, and the two had a protracted interview, in the course of which the president gave the Utica boss clearly to understand that in order to please the Washington boss, he must give over his little revenges.

It is doubtful whether the Guiteau plan mplated this result, but that is of little t. It is a plan which, if firmly carried l be altogether satisfactory to the The big boss must have his smaller bosses, and it will be gratifying to know that Grant, Conkling, Logan and the Camerons will revolve around Arthur as his satellites. The New York Sun caught a glimpse of Arthur's purpose the other day when it remarked that he was "every inch a president." He promises to be every inch a presidential boss, and that is sufficient. The country is sick of bossism. It doesn't care anything about who is boss, but it is tired of the manifestation of those coarse and despicable qualities which prompt public men to exercise the power of a boss. Arthur, as a boss, will be quite as disgusting to reasonably thoughtful people as Grant or Conkling; and herein lies the victory which Guiteau has achieved.

NOW that the fall elections are about to be closed the Honorable Conkling, of Utica, will show his aw ful front at the white house gate more frequently.

PEOPLE who know nothing about politics are predicting that the New York Tribune will never become a third term organ. These worthy people have never heard of the Greeley campaign and its tragical mixture of humor and misery. We make no predictions, but we would be glad to know that the Tribune would stand for the pacification of the sections.

THE season is approaching when Colonel John W. Forney will issue one of his fundamental pronunciamentoes. It is not definitely settled which party the veteran colonel will nurse next season, but the fact that he acted with the democrats last year is evidence that he is comparatively tame. We admire this sort of progress. If the best of the republicans can be tamed, we may rely upon the machinery of justice to put the worst in jail. We still have hopes of the perpetuity of the republic.

YOUR Uncle David Davis concluded that, as the cold weather is coming on, it wouldn't do for a man of his size to be without a partner in politics. Wherefore he froze on to the hottest crowd he could find.

AFTER to-day, the new administration will begin to take form and color. Arthur has already been playing Juliet to Grant's bald-headed Romeo, with Jones in his side-splitting delineation of wet-nurse. And the organs of the Garfield administration are preparing to applaud. Evidently there is fun brewing.

THE Cartersville Free Press announces that Dr. Felton has no notion of running for governor as an independent candidate. This ought to settle the matter. There is no law to compel Dr. Felton to become a candidate for governor, and those who have been running him for that office up to date have lost their wind. They must now look around for new material.

COLONEL CHARLES OWENS claims his Indian warriors shield in the exposition, was pulled before it was ripe. He claims, furthermore, that these things keep better in a raw state.

THE exposition demonstrates that all our climate lacks to make it perfect is plenty of capital.

THE fowls that are destined to play the part of spring chickens next year, are already able to fly to roost. We live in an age of progress.

P. DALZELL, of Ohio, appears to be intimately connected with all our modern statesmen. When they refuse to correspond with him, he visits their grandparents.

THE present administration proposes to so conduct itself that the next president will not be an Ohio veteran. Let the conspiracy proceed.

THE decent white republicans of Virginia are opposed to Mahone, but the republican machine, situated at the north, is compelling its henchmen in that state to support repudiation upon pain of dismissal from the offices they hold. Very well. If the republicans of the north think that chickens of this size never come home to roost, they are strangely ignorant of the habits of political poultry.

It appears that the friends of Guiteau are growing in numbers. Under all the circumstances, this is natural.

IT is useless for President Arthur to hum and haw about it, the old gang will not be complete until Belknap is made secretary of war and Robeson secretary of the navy. If the restoration is to come, let it be complete.

GENERAL GRANT'S Mexican plans have been swallowed up by his interest in the new administration.

IN regard to the prosecution of Guiteau, president Arthur seems to have MacVeagh on his hip.

BOB INGERSOLL speaks right out and says the fair fame of Miss Mary Jane Justice has been tarnished in the neighborhood of the escutcheon by the prosecution of the star-route jobbers. The Colonel, however, is talking for money, and not fame.

THE symptoms are that President Arthur is inclined to use his boot on MacVeagh.

ESSAY by MacVeagh: "The fact that I was in the immediate neighborhood of a severe kicking convinces me that the president is a stalwart. Nothing but my argumentative ability saved me. Little children, when you grow up to be Pennsylvania male reformers and female roosters, you should never be caught in the same bed-room with a stalwart administration. There is no telling what may happen. Thanking you all for your kind attention, I will now bid you good evening."

PERSONAL.

MR. W. G. ROBERTS, who represents the Missouri Republican, of St. Louis, is in the city to survey the exposition.

IT is said to be a fact beyond dispute that Captain Henry Jackson will contest for congressional honors in this district in 1882.

EX-GOVERNOR BROSS, of Illinois, recently a visitor to Atlanta and the exposition, writes of us very handsomely in a letter to the Chicago Tribune.

THE press of Richmond, Virginia, urge upon the mayor and common council the wisdom of inviting Hon. Edward Atkinson and his party to stop over in Richmond on their return north from Atlanta.

THE New Orleans Democrat in an Atlanta special announces that General Gartrell is a candidate for governor of Georgia, and a candidate who proposes to let the people say who shall be governor. In other words, an independent.

HON. JOHN D. STEWART, judge of the Flint circuit, is in the city this week to hold court in conjunction with Judge Hillyer Judge Stewart has proven so acceptable a judge and so popular with all that it is a pleasure to have him with us.

MR. W. H. EGGLESTON, of the Cincinnati Gazette, reached the city last night, and will give his attention to the exposition and Atlanta, for some days. The Gazette has dealt liberally with the exposition, and Mr. Eggleston will find himself welcome within its gates.

COLONEL GEORGE W. PALMER, the great salt and stock man of southwest Virginia, left his estimate of to-day's election in Virginia, with THE CONSTITUTION. He predicts the election of Daniel by 12,000 majority and believes he knows that it cannot be less.

HON. GEORGE B. LORING offers to build a special building in Washington to contain the minerals and woods exhibit at the cotton exposition, if it shall be donated to the government. Commissioner Loring states that Senator Brown enthusiastically favors the donation as suggested.

THE HON. James Bryce, member of parliament, professor of Roman, or civil law, in the university of Oxford and author of "The Holy Roman Empire," easily the first book of its class in the world, is in the city upon a tour of inspection under the general charge of Mr. Atkinson and Colonel Frank Howe. Mr. Bryce is an intelligent gentleman and stands in the front rank of English scholars and economists.

THE National hotel, Washington, will hold its own during the coming season, and is receiving applications from many new comers. Acting Vice-President David Davis and Senators Ferry and Call, are among those who will resume their accustomed places there; also the Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, whose return is expected by the 20th instant, and Hon. Emory Speer and his bride.

M. JULES GREVY is Grand Cordon of the Order of the Tower and the Sword of Portugal; Grand Cordon of the Turkish Order of the Osmanie, the insignia of which, sent to him by the sultan, are worth 25,000 francs; Grand Cordon of the Tunisian Order of the Blood of the Prophet, the insignia of which, presented to him by the bey before the war, are estimated at 100,000 francs. In the bans of his daughter's marriage M. Grevy is described as the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. The Figaro, however, contests his right to that title.

L'HENTIER, the senior pensioner of the hotel des Invalides, Paris, has just died at the age of ninety, leaving a fortune of $80,000. He was crippled during the last campaign of the first empire, and entered the hotel in 1815, obtaining at the same time a small office from the minister of war. For thirty years he saved his pay and increased his store by selling to his comrades all the small articles they were in need of. Important sums concealed by him were often discovered in hiding places. A few months before his death he learned that he had a nephew, a painter, who received and nursed him during his last days and who now inherits his fortune.

GOVERNOR BIGELOW, of Connecticut, says of the suit which was made for him at the Atlanta exposition: "That coat was made in a day. The cotton was growing in the morning and I was receiving in it in the evening. It was brought to me at Governor Colquitt's mansion, two miles outside the city of Atlanta. You couldn't tell it from broadcloth in the evening, but of course in the daytime, and under a close inspection, it looks rough and shows its true character." It has a coarse but not unseemly appearance, and is lined with silk. The vest was made of a sort of basket-cloth pattern. It is colorless, and of the regular reception style. It is backed and lined with an elegant pattern of white brocaded silk.'

THE Anglican ritualists are showing a disposition to make concessions. We stated last week that they offer to give up incense. In addition, they offer to cease many practices which have been regarded as objectionable; and, moreover, they agree to accept the prayer-book, with all its "vestiges of foreign Protestant influence."

A MAN at a Washington hotel in a loud tone of voice called his friend back just as he was leaving the dining room and then whispered to him, "How far would you have got if I hadn't called you back?" The other, straightening himself up, replied in a tone loud enough for all to hear, "No, sir, I won't lend you $5. I haven't got it, and if I had I wouldn't let you have it until you paid me what you borrowed two months ago." His friend will never call him back again in a public dining-room.

A Republican View of National Banks.

Newark Daily Advertiser, rep. November 4.

Every man his own banker! It is noticed that ever since the failure of the Mechanics' bank there has been a perfect irruption of the iron safes from the New York factories. Every day the enormous trucks are seen moving up Market street to their destinations—and why not? It has become an established fact that neither the national banking law nor the character of directors affords any protection to stockholders and depositors; and it is natural that they should now prefer to keep possession of their own money, and take the risk of burglars on their own premises.

Farmer Jones, of Troup.

Shreveport, Louisiana, Times.

Georgia, which, even before the war, was a long way ahead of her southern sisters in intelligent farming and other enterprises, now furnishes the weapon with which to break the heads of hard-headed farmers, wise in their own conceit. It has often been matter of surprise to us, as, no doubt, to others, how it was that the poverty-stricken hills of the old state could yield such rich returns to the farmer as to enable him to invest a surplus in manufactures and other home enterprises. The key to the mystery is supplied by the following article from THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, to which the above remarks are merely prefatory, and which we sincerely trust every subscriber of the Times will read carefully and prayerfully. If the farmer whose experience is recorded shall induce the farmers generally throughout the south to follow his example, he will have accomplished more for his section than all the legislators and statesmen from Thomas Jefferson down to the present day.

When Stonewall Jackson was Frightened.

An Anecdote by Governor Jackson, of West Virginia.

I recollect asking "Stonewall," who was my cousin, if he had ever been frightened in war. He said yes, once he had been considerably under a sense of fear. It was in the City of Mexico. A chest containing a large sum of money had been put in Lieutenant Jackson's charge, and to be perfectly secure of it he ordered it carried to his headquarters, in an old abbey or convent, and laid down there alone in the room with it to sleep, a sentinel walking the corridor outside. He had been there in bed only a few minutes, and was getting drowsy, when he distinctly heard something under his bed, which lifted up as if a man was secreted there. Jackson said he leaped out of bed and drew his sword and examined the bed and the room in vain. Jackson then supposed he had been possibly dreaming and resumed his bed. Just as he was thinking it was all a mistake his bed lifted again, plainly and with some force. He started forth a second time, sword in hand, and behold! nothing was there. "This time," said he, "I was scared, indeed, till my attention was called to a shouting outside in the street, and then I found that it was an earthquake passing under the City of Mexico that had lifted my bed up and given me such apprehension."

CHRISTIANITY.

Reply of Judge Black to Colonel Ingersoll.

PHILADELPHIA, November 7.—The following letter from Judge Jere Black appeared in the Press of this city yesterday:

To the Editors of the Press: Among the great metropolitan journals you alone, as far as I know, took any apparent interest in that number of the North American Review which contained what its editor called "A Debate on the Christian Religion." It seems right, therefore, that you—and, if you please, your readers—should know why it is that the number last out appears with an article from Mr. Ingersoll unaccompanied by any remarks of mine.

I was not a volunteer in this business. The editor of the Review made two journeys to my house and besought me to furnish him with a refutation of Ingersoll's blasphemous doctrines, which he said were everywhere puzzling religious teachers and leading people astray. I did not believe that Mr. Ingersoll's utterances were at all harmful, and if the faith of the Christian world was in danger I was unworthy and unfit to be its defender. There were in my opinion, ten thousand professional theologians who could and would do it better, and were, in fact, doing it most effectually at that very time by their words and their deeds. But this editor was absurd enough to insist that if I did not answer Mr. Ingersoll he could not be answered at all, and it would thence be inferred that the Christian system was false. Moved by his importunities and influenced by a regard for the wishes of "certain friends whose loves I might not drop," I agreed that I would append to Mr. Ingersoll's article my own opinion of its fallacy, and thus make the two together as fit as I could for publication in a decent magazine.

From the beginning it was distinctly understood that my defense was to be p[illegible] same number with the accusation. The editor was (or at least pretended to be) a firm believer in Christianity, and he would not for the world publish Ingersoll's poisonous stuff without putting the antidote right beside it—to do so would not only afflict his conscience but greatly injure the character of his Review.

At the time of the publication I agreed that if Mr. Ingersoll had any fault to find with the result it might seem cowardly to refuse him another chance on the same terms. I was not afraid of any new assault he might make if he was not afraid of my defense.

Three months afterward fifty pages of the foulest and falsest libel that ever was written against God or man was sent to me. I was entirely willing to treat it as I had treated the other; that is, give it the answer I thought it deserved and let both go together. But it came when I was disabled by an injury from which I could not hope to get well for some weeks, and I so notified the editor. To my surprise I was informed that no contradiction, correction or criticism of mine or anybody else would be allowed to accompany this new effusion of filth. It was to be printed immediately, and would occupy so much space that none could be spared for the other side. I proposed that if its bulk could not be reduced so as to admit of an answer in the same number it should be postponed until a reply could be made ready for publication in the next succeeding number. This and divers other offers were rejected for the express reason that "Mr. Ingersoll would not consent." Finding the Review controlled by him to suit himself, I did not think I was bound to go further.

True, I was offered the chance of replying in a future number, but that was not the privilege I had bargained for nor the duty agreed to perform. Besides, if I would write an answer, what confidence could I have that they would not suppress it? A promise of theirs, express or implied, is not, in my estimation, worth a straw if they have an interest in breaking it. Their object was not what they professed—to get the truth vindicated—but to make a sensation and increase the sale of their paper.

I am especially blamable for allowing myself to be taken in by them on this occasion, because the same treacherous concern had basely betrayed me once before. After tracking me out and hunting me down to get an article on the great fraud of 1876, a subject then of much general interest, and making by its publication, as the proprietor himself told me, not less than ten thousand dollars, they handed me and my friends, living and dead, over to be covered with irrelevant slanders on a bargain that I should not be permitted to refute them in their pages. The pamphlet to which I was driven could not reach half the readers of the Review, and the other half probably believe to this day that I and certain other men, some of them the best and worthiest in the land, were guilty of the most atrocious crimes known to any law, divine or human. It was weak in me not to prosecute those libellers in a court of justice; still weaker to condone the offense and put myself in the way of being similarly maltreated again. Perhaps, also, it was unwise at the beginning to look for better behavior from adventurers conducting a magazine without avowed convictions or principles and without capacity to contribute an original thing of their own except rags and lampblack.

It would be pleasant to believe that some professional theologian or other believer in the truth may be permitted to address the readers of the magazine in question. But I expect not. It seems probable that the North American Review will be prostituted entirely to the service of atheism.

There is no personal wrangle with Mr. Ingersoll. He has said nothing offensive about me. His indignation at finding himself confronted, not by a professional theologian, but by a layman who applied the judicial test to his assertions, was natural and expressed with tolerable moderation. On the other hand, I tried, and I think I tried successfully, to confine myself rigidly to the square issue between us. A just or even an intelligent criticism could not be made without some reference to his mental peculiarities, which, with habits of shallow thinking and rash talking, made him an utterly incompetent judge of the subject he pretended to argue. But I found the proof of this within the four corners of his own paper. There, also, I learned that he was without any acknowledged standard of right or wrong. It was legitimate to notice that, because it accounted satisfactorily for his other utterances.

Neither is there any question of partisan politics between us. I have certain political convictions, which you may call prejudices if you will. But whether they are well or ill-founded, they have no manner of just connection with the subject-matter of Mr. Ingersoll's diatribe against Christianity. I believe, and have often expressed the belief, that religion and politics cannot be mingled together without endangering both. The most perfect system of human government that ever was invented by the wit of man and the holiest religion that God has revealed to his creatures when united together form a monstrous compound highly injurious to the best interests of the human race. Such a union is pronounced by Christ and his apostles to be impure, and the fathers of this republic so shaped thier fundamental law as to make it a wall of perfect partition between them. Without such complete separation there can be no security for either civil liberty or the rights of conscience in matters of religion. The worst form of this adulterous connection is not assumed when a legal union is formed between church and state. It is when a popular party in a free government undertakes to mingle its coarse interests and its vulgar passions with the religious sentiments of the people. That is what pollutes and falsifies both. The history of the world, and especially that of our own country, has been written in vain if this be not the lesson it teaches.

These convictions not only disarm me of the power to repel Mr. Ingersoll's assaults by a political argument, but force me to admit for the purposes of this case that he is right on all the points of that kind which he chooses to lug in. I can do that, argumenti gratia, without affecting the real question in controversy.

He thought he was striking a powerful blow at the Almighty when he showed that the Jewish constitution contained a provision which conflicted with the platform of the abolitionists. They had determined and resolved that under all circumstances, at all times, and everywhere the toleration of slavery or servitude for life was a crime. By this and by other means, not now to be described, they got money, power and great personal consequence for themselves and their fellows. Mr. Ingersoll could trust them to unite with him in howling down Christianity or anything else that diminished the profits of their business. Directly before him he had the successful example of Demetrius, the silversmith, who raised a tremendous uproar against the gospel of Christ by simply bellowing out: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." "Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth."

I could only protest that these appeals to the interest and passions of a political party were unfair. Diana of the Ephesians and yankee abolitionism may both have been great, and they were great in the sense of being popular but that does not prove that the Gospel of God is a pernicious imposture. The Jewish Constitution, which tolerated the enslavement of savages in Judea, and the resolves of the abolition caucus, which condemned it in America, might both be right since the two systems were not to be judged by one another; each should be considered with proper reference to circumstances widely different. But the suggestion that the infallible God might be believed to have prosecuted on just grounds without impugning the righteousness of the abolitionists met with no favor. The practiced demagogue cannot forego the tricks of his trade, and so he makes the panegyric of his political faction an excuse for casting contempt in the face of his Maker and for insulting the faith and reason of all who believe in Christ. The barest thought that the Judge of all the earth did fill him with rancor, which he pours out over page after page and then repeats it again and again:

> Unpacks his heart with words
> And falls to cursing like a very drab—
> A scullion—

I have said thus much about the slavery point, not as an answer to Mr. Ingersoll, but because I will not have it understood if I can help it, that I permitted or provoked the introduction of partisan politics into the discussion of a religious subject.

These furious outbreaks of intemperate abuse upon God, his laws and institutions, do not disturb any one's intellectual belief or at all diminish the awful reverence which a Christian feels for the supreme object of his adoration. Mr. Ingersoll thinks he is raising a storm on the ocean of thought; he is not producing a ripple. He is merely doing the part of a common scold, to whom the idle listen for the sport of the thing, while others, taking counsel of their outraged feelings, think him a nuisance that ought to be abated. This is, perhaps, not very easy to do. A woman, for such an offense, could be ducked under the rule of the ancient law, but when a communis vixatrix of the male gender vexes the peace of a neighborhood in this way the remedy is difficult and doubtful.

To learn how gratuitous these anilities are—how he scolds for the mere sake of scolding—look at his fanfaronade on polygamy. By the unaided influence of the church alone this vice has been extirpated completely and perfectly. In Christian countries the universal rule is that one man shall be the husband of one wife and no more; and it is neither the rule nor the practice anywhereelse on the face of the globe. Now a person who has ordinary sense must see that the moral merit of Christ's gospel in this respect is directly proportioned to the magnitude of the evil from which it has relieved human society. But Mr. Ingersoll tries to blacken the character of the Christian religion by railing at the bad practice which it has opposed and destroyed. If he had flung out at monogamous marriage, which Christianity upholds, his act, though unjust, might have had an apparent object not altogether preposterous. Indeed, monogamy is as open to mere vulgar vituperation as polygamy. When an unclean mind exerts itself to imagine what may take place it is as easy to talk about brutality and the animal degradation of woman in one case as another. To the beastly all things are beastly. In point of fact the great body of unbelievers have denounced the Christian institution of marriage with espicial bitterness. To tie one man and one woman together by a bond which nothing but death can dissolve is, in their opinion, not only unjust and immoral, but a base and brutal tyranny, which imposes a degrading restraint upon the natural rights of men and women to love and cohabit with whom they please. This is a prime and prominent part of the atheistic theory, everywhere advocated by its regular organs and its greatest disciples. In France, where their societies are compact a powerful, they define their creed substantially [illegible]: 1. There is no God. 2. Religion is a lie. 3. Property is theft. 4. Love must be free. 5. Marriage is slavery. 6. Children belong to the state, and not to anybody in particular.

This is "the gospel of dirt." I don't say that Mr. Ingersoll swallows it whole. He believes, or at least he practices, the Christian doctrine on the subjects of marriage, paternity and property, not because he is bound by the divine commandment, but because he feels like it. Others, rejecting as he does the "golden metwand or the law," have an equal right to take their own feelings as the measure of righteousness. So one set of atheists curses marriage and another blackguards polygamy, and they are both right if there be no God above all and over all.

I do not intend this as a substitute for the answer which I would have made if the presiding genius of the Review had been propitious. My principal object is to show that his "circular abuse" amounts to absolutely nothing. A regular reply would prove that in every line of his last article he has either falsified history or applied to it an erroneous interpretation. But I am tempted not to quit without giving a sample of his efforts at scientific reasoning.

If he does not deny the existence of a God his occupation is gone. The object, therefore, of his highest ambition ever since he took the stump against Christianity has been and is to annihilate the evidence which shows that the world has a maker and a moral governor. This being his great central point on which all other points must turn, he has, of course, laid himself out to do his very best for it. Let us see what he has achieved.

I thought I was giving a true and accurate account of his theory when I said that he regarded the universe as natural; that "it came into being of its own accord;" that "it made its own laws at the start, and afterward improved itself considerably by spontaneous evolution." But he denies that this is a true exposition of his views, and he exercises his conceded right to define them again more sharply than he did before. Now he says that the universe did not come into being at all; it always was; nor did it make its own laws, for it has no laws.

If the material universe existed, just as it is now, from all unbegun eternity, there is, to be sure, not much chance for a creator to have done any work; if its harmony is preserved and the uniformity of its action maintained without any rule or regulation prescribed by a superior power, then there is and has been no need of a lawgiver; God is, therefore, so useless a being that he must be theoretically blotted out of existence.

For the proposition that the universe always was (without a creator) and will be forever (without a preserver) he offers only one proof, to wit, that it is according to his idea. This he considers potent enough to overrule all the evidence, direct and circumstantial, by which his "idea" is opposed. All testimony borne by the common sense of mankind, all the deductions of reason, all philosophy, and all faith in holy writ must be swept aside, so that his idea may have free course to run and be glorified. But this ascription of supreme authority to an idea, merely because it happens to be his idea, will hardly be concurred in. The assertion of it, indeed, proves nothing except that his bump of self-esteem is in a state of chronic inflammation.

He starts another idea, which has the same special merit of being his own, namely, that the material universe is not governed by laws. The planets move at a rate and in orbits which can be calculated with absolute certainty; the earth revolves on its axis with such perfect regularity that the very second of time at which the sun will rise at a particular place can be predicted a thousand years beforehand: chemical substances combine always in exactly the same relative proportions; in the animal and vegetable worlds like produces like; in all organized beings certain causes are known to produce certain effects favorable or unfavorable to life and health. Mr. Ingersoll's idea is that these are not the results of law or any sort of intelligent prearrangement; but they are phenomena which happen, and the world is by mere accident prevented from falling into chaos. In his wisdom he decides "as matter of fact" that there is no rule back of the phenomenon which a controlling power compels the subject-matter to obey; it merely happens, but it happens so uniformly that it creates the idea of law in our minds, which is however, a mere delusion. If Galileo and Newton and Kepler and all the other philosophers, great and small, have been seduced into the weak belief that the material universe is under the reign of law, it is a rare good fortune for us in these latter days to have found a superior personage who, by merely turning the Drummond light of his intellect on the subject, at once exposes the blunders of the ignorant living and "the barbarian dead."

Let no man misunderstand or misrepresent Mr. Ingersoll. It is not in irony or to point a scurrile jest that he denies the operation of natural laws upon matter. He is in serious earnest, and if he does not actually believe what he says his simulation of sincerity is very perfect. To make himself clear he takes a very simple case. Water, he says, always runs down hill, not because there is a law behind it—law does not cause the phenomenon, but the phenomenon causes the idea of law to exist in our minds—but that idea is on this side of the fact. It follows that Newton must have been grossly mistaken when he said that the falling of water and other bodies toward the center of the earth was caused by the law of gravitation.

Mr. Ingersoll supposes that he is imputing an absurdity to me when he says "Mr. Black probably thinks the difference in the weight of rocks and clouds is produced by law." Undoubtedly I do. I learned in my infancy (and I have "kept the credulity of the cradle") that this difference is caused by that same law of gravitation operating according to rules which are perfectly understood by all tolerably well-informed men. I will go further and confess that I think it a most beneficent law which prevents the rocks from flying about through the air and the clouds from becoming immovably fixed in the earth. Our great Creator ought to be adored and thanked for making such an arrangement. But this only proves to Mr. Ingersoll that I am a believer in "the monstrous and miraculous, the impossible and immoral."

Mr. Ingersoll is much accused of plagiarism. Whether that be true or not of his declamatory spouting, this notion that the material world is not governed by law is without doubt original. It never entered any human head before, and I think that in all future time it will find no lodgment in the mind of any reasonable being.

Another way he has of reaching the atheistic conclusion. I do not say that I know what he wants to be at. But as well as I can understand him, he asserts that the universe could not have had a design because we cannot trace back the designer to his own origin; the world was not made, because we cannot tell who made the maker. The mechanism of a watch is so curious that "it must," says he, "have had a maker," but he adds the watchmaker himself is more wonderfully made than the watch, and hence he infers that he also must have a maker, since the necessity of a creator increases with the wonder of the creature. He is unquestionably, though, perhaps, unconsciously, right in this. It makes a demonstration as complete as mathematics that man was created by "some preexistent and self-conscious being of power and wisdom to us unconceivable." But instead of accepting this plain, palpable and necessary consequence of his own logic, he turns his back upon the conclusion and begins to maunder over his own inability to understand how a designer could be without an anterior design, and telling how hard it is for him to see the plan or design in earthquakes and pestilences; and how the justice of God is not visible to him in the history of the world. This silly trash he thinks sufficient to repel the irresistible proofs of a creator which he himself has adduced, and which by all fair and unperverted minds are received as conclusive.

CAPTAIN KIDD'S WILL.

The Disposition Made of His Large Estate.

There has been much curiosity expressed in the city to know the disposition that the late Captain William Kidd had made of his property. The will was yesterday probated in the court of ordinary, and we append the full text of it, showing that it is a brief and business-like document, carefully drawn and evidently fully considered. Captain John H. Mecaslin is made executor, a trust that Captain Kidd was well aware might be safely entrusted to his hands, for few men ever had a more devoted and faithful friend than had the deceased in the person of his former associate in business. For years Captain Mecaslin has been the trusted adviser and manager in large part for Captain Kidd, and he has been richly remembered and confided in to the last.

In our notice of the death of Captain Kidd we referred fully to his career in Atlanta, and for those who will take an interest in his bequests no further sketch of him will be needed. The will in full is as follows:

STATE OF GEORGIA, COUNTY OF FULTON—In the name of God, amen.—I, William Kidd, of the city of Atlanta, county of Fulton, State of Georgia, being of sound mind and memory and desiring to provide for the disposition of my property at my decease, whilst I am thoroughly aware of what I am doing, do h rebymake this my last will and testament:

Item 1. I give and bequeath to the Young Men's library association of the city of Atlanta $1,000.

Item 2. I give and bequeath to my cousin, William McLease, $1,000.

Item 3. I give and bequeath to Williiam M. Roades, who is now engineer on United States ship Hasseleer $1,000.

Item 4. I give and bequeath to my namesake, William Lagomarsino, son of John Lagomarsino, one share of stock in the Atlanta national bank.

Item 5. I give and bequeath to my namesake, William Lynch, son of Michael Lynch of Atlanta, one share in the Atlanta national bank.

Item 6. I give and bequeath to John H. Mecaslin, of Atlanta, all my interest in all the real estate we own jointly, to-wit: one lot on Decetur street in the city of Atlanta, one lot in the town of West End in Fulton county, said lot at the corner of Lee and Gordon, and one tract of land lying partly in the county of Macon, and partly in the county of Lee, in the state of Alabama.

Item 7. All the remainder of my property of every kind I may die possessed of I desire to be collected and sold and after paying my debts I may leave, I desire it to be divided as follows, to-wit: I give and bequeath to my sister, Mary A. Miller, three-eights (3/8) of the same. I give to my sister, Mrs. Jane Clark, one-half of the same, and I give to my nephew, Hugh Pigot, one-eighth (1/8) of the same. I desire said sale and division to take place as soon as it can legally be done and the division provided for made as soon as may be.

Item 8. I appoint my friend John Mecaslin, of the ciy of Atlanta, my executor.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal in the presence of the witnesses hereto assigned.

WILLIAM KIDD, [L. S.]

Signed sealed and published by the testator as his last will in our presence, and attested by us in his presence this 12th day December, 1879.

J. W. RUCKER,
WILLIAM BOLLMAN,
H. K. MCKAY.

The will, it may be seen, was made nearly two years ago, and has not since been altered or adde to by the testasor.

THE FIFTH ARTILLERY.

The Soldiers at the Barracks All Ready to Say Good-Bye.

Everything at McPherson barracks is in a stir preparatory to the departure of the Fifth artillery, which will occur to-morrow or Thursday. All the property of the officers and men has been packed and they are ready to move at a moment's notice.

The light battery left for New York Sunday afternoon, but there are six batteries still here.

The bids of the several routes for carrying the troops will be opened to-day and the contract awarded by Quartermaster Williams.

There has never been a regiment here so generally esteemed by the people as the Fifth artillery. Many kind wishes will follow the boys to their new homes.

A Negro Gets Justice.

Recently W. J. Bond, a white youth, riding home at night from a political meeting in this county, became enraged at the conduct of a negro man in the same wagon and shot him with a pistol. The negro was badly wounded, but not killed. On Saturday Bond was tried for assault to murder. The witnesses were all white and the testimony fairly given and considered. Bond was found guilty by an entire white jury and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. This is another evidence of the justice that is meted out in our courts, independent of race, color, or previous condition.

Gone Home.

Mrs. Howard, the woman who left her home in Cobb county a few days ago and was found in a house of ill-fame in this city Saturday evening last, was yesterday called for by her mother and husband. At first Mrs. Howard declined to return to her home or even to see her mother, but when Captain Couch threatened, as he did, to take her to the station house, she agreed to accompany her mother to Marietta, and did so at 12:15 last night.

Hotel Thieves.

C. Wilhelm and Milt Morrison, arrested at the instance of Clerk Lowry, of the Markham house, as hotel thieves, will have a trial before Justice Tanner this morning. Each of them was armed with a bottle of chloroform when arrested.

Personal.

—Mr. Tom Pollard is confined to his room, corner of Prior and Hunter streets, suffering from a prodigious carbuncle.

—Mr. H. C. Nall, of Memphis, is at the Kimball.

—Rev. F. A. DeRopet, Sewanee, Tenn., is among the late arrivals at the Kimball last night.

—Hon. Henry W. Hilliard, Miss Hilliard and Miss Mays, of Augusta, are at the Kimball.

—Colonel Houston Rucker, of New York, is booked at the Kimball.

—Mr. S. A. Hubbard, Hartford, Conn., has rooms at the Markham.

—A. L. Foster and lady, of St. Louis, are at the Markham.

—Mr. Thomas Franklin, of Edgefield county, S. C., is in charge of a party of thirty-two, who came in last night to spend two days inspecting the exposition.

—Mr. S. K. Dendy and wife, of Piedmont, S. C., are stopping with Captain Roberts, 37 Cain street.

Some of the Fortunate Ones on Earth.

At New Orleans, on the 11th day of October, at the 137th grand monthly drawing of the Louisiana State lottery company, $30,000, the first capital prize; was won by ticket No. 7,240, half of which was held by a jolly Alsatian saloon-keeper, Max Schmidt, No. 440 W. 32d street, New York city; half by Augustus de Grummund, a poor but popular pump maker of No. 488 M street, Washington, D. C. $10,000, the second prize, by No. 56,939, also sold in halves, one of which was held by Mr. John C. Dieffenbach, a prominent steam-tug owner of West street, New York city; the other half collected through the well known bankers of Washington, D. C., Messrs. H. D. Cooke, Jr., & Co. $5,000, the third capital, by No. 99,738, half of which was held by Alex. Urias, a segar dealer at 54½ Division street, New York city: the other by J. G. Roux, of Edwards, Mississippi. $2,500, by No. 55,971, held by B. R. Howard, of Aberdeen, Mississippi; and No. 22,987, held by M. C. Casfari, No. 245 Argyle street, Baltimore, Md. These are only some of the thousand lucky investors. Any one interested in such remunerative speculations should write at once to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, Louisiana, in time to participate in the great semi-annual distribution of over half a million of dollars on December 13th, under the sole management of Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia. nov8 d&w1t

PAST.

The murmur of centuries past is blown to me
Like the dullest rumble of a distant sea;

A wail of sorrow seems to faint afar
Upon the golden bosom of a star;

How darkly droops the nigh! A dream of death
Breathes icily through the summer's languid breath—

A dream of dead and melancholy days
When fierce life yearned for unimagined ways'

When king and priest were rulers of the earth
And manhood crawled before the crown of birth.

Dark days of ignorance, martyrdom and woe,
When thought was cursed as God's implacable foe

Black days of black religions, bloody years
Washed with a people's unforgotten tears!

Wild agony of the past, I seem to feel
Thy passionate throbs, and all my senses reel!

FINANCIAL FACTS.

NEW YORK, November 7.—The stock market was strong at the opening, prices generally ¼ to 1 per cent higher than at the close Saturday, the latter Metropolitan Elevated. In the early dealings a firm tone prevailed and at 11 o'clock an advance of ¼ to 2⅛ per cent was recorded, in which Texas Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande, Kansas and Texas, Erie, Peoria, Decatur and Evansville, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Colorado Coal and Manhattan Elevated were most prominent. Subsequently a reaction of ⅛ to ⅝ took place; the depression was of brief duration and during the afternoon speculation although rather inactive was in the main strong and prices tended upward; an advance, which reached its height at the second board ranged from ¼ to 2¼ per cent, and was most marked in Norfolk and Western, Western Preferred and East Tennessee, the improvement in the remainder of the list being merely fractional. In the late transactions a slight reaction occurred, but the market became firm again in the final sales and closed in many instances at the best figures of the day; Richmond and Danville, which closed Saturday at 115 and sold up to 118¾ fell off to 115 and rallied to 116. Transactions aggregated 357,000 shares.

THE FAMOUS FACTORY SHOALS, SITUATED 15 miles from Atlanta, and on which the new Manchester Manufacturing Company's Factory, etc., was built, but which was reduced to ashes by Sherman's army, is now for sale. This factory covered about one-half acre of ground, and the main building was five stories high. The walls of this magnificent building is yet standing. These shoals are the most valuable on Sweetwater. There is a natural dam or hedge of rock running diagonally across the stream, which throws the water into the canal cut to the factory place, a distance of 300 yards and empties at a fall of 24 feet. There are 133 acres of land belonging to the place, with five springs, and plenty of timber. The property is now owned by Judge McIntosh, of Powder Springs, senior partner, and S. N Dorsett, of Douglasville, Ga. These shoals are about three miles from Georgia Pacific Railroad, and four miles from Rome extension.

FROM OUR REPORTERS' POCKET CAMERAS.

Yesterday in the City--What was Done and Said by Home-Folks and Strangers--The Gossip of the Town as Taken on the Fly--In and About the Courts and Departments.

BURGLARIZED.—Sunday night last, Mr. William Laird's store, corner Whitehall and Brotherton streets, was entered by some thieves and robbed of quite a quanity of cigars, tobacco, baking powder, etc.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.—Mr. W. E. Mountcastle, the well known Broad street produce broker, is still dangerously ill at the infirmary, on Collins street. His father and mother, in response to telegrams announcing his critical condition, have reached the city.

IMPROVING.—Mrs. Mnrphy who resides at 79 Loyd street, and who has been critically ill for the past ten days, is, we are glad to say, gradually improving and hopes of an early recovery are now entertainod by her many friends. For several days Mrs. Murphy's death was hourly expected.

GOT A SECOND TERM.—Yesterday in the Fulton superior court Steve Wilmuth, white, was convicted of stealing a mule and will receive a sentence to the penitentiary. About three years ogo Steve was sent to the chain-gang from Clayton county for larceny from the house.

A BROKEN LEG.—Frank Thompson, a young boy who resides with his parents on Means street, stepped into a post hole in the yard around the house yesterday evening and broke his left leg near the knee. The fracture is a bad one, and will render him useless for some time to come.

SNEAK THIEVES.—The pesky sneak thief is doing his work in lively style in the city. Yesterday noon one of them stole an overcoat from a hat rack at the residence of Mr. Beach, on McDonough; and last night they cleaned the hat rack at the residence of Mr. Sam W. Small of the head-wear it contained.

SENT TO JAIL.—A negro man who enjoys the historic name of Jesse James was yesterday arraigned before Judge Tanner for a preliminary trial upon a warrant charging him with larceny. The evidence showed that he had stolen a hunk of beef from Shields, the Decatur street butcher, and in default of a $200 bond he was committed to jail.

REGULAR COURT DAY.—Yesterday was Judge Rhea's regular court day, for the month of November, and his office was crowded with attorneys, clients and bailiffs. The docket was called, and cases were set for every day between this and the 21st instant. The cases embrace actions on notes and accounts, for damages, trover, laborer's lein, etc. There are more than one hundred cases on the docket.

STEALING A WAGON.—Some time during Sunday night Ike Forbes's wagon was stolen from his stable yard adjoining his house in Hulsey street. About midnight Forbes was awakened by the noise made by the wagon as it was driven out of the yard but at the time he thought nothing of it, presuming the noise he heard was being made by a wagon in the street. No clue as as yet to the bold thief.

BROAD'S WILL.—It is currently rumored that a strenuous effort will be made to prevent the probating of the will of the late John Broad, when it is called for that purpose in the ordinary's court next month. Colonel McDavid, an attorney of Huntsville, Ala., is now in Atlanta, at the instance of the Alabama relatives of the deceased Broad, investigating the matter, and if all reports be true the will that has been offered for probation will be warmly contested by him.

CALABOOSED.—Last night the police department was kept quite busy jailing individuals who had violated the city and state laws. Of those against whom state cases were entered there were Alex. Franklin, colored, against whom there is the charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses; Milt Morrison, C. Wilheim and James Smiley, a trio of suspicious individuals; B. Burges, for whom a warrant alleging larcency will be procured, and William Sims, who will answer the same charge.

SAFE ROBBERY.—Some time during Sunday night Mr. Thompson's store in Fairburn was burglariously entered and quite a quantity of tobacco, cigars, etc., taken therefrom. While in the store the burglar came across the combination to the safe, which had been carelessly left in the show case, and by this means gained access to this cash depository, from which eight hundred and twenty-five dollars in money was taken. The thief left no clue by which a trail could be secured.

ON BICYCLES.—Sunday morning last Mr. Henry Robson, who resides at Kirkwood, and who, by the way, is quite a bicyclist, accompanied by Professor Brockett, Messrs. H. C. Beerman, Sid Holland, Robert Sims, S. Edwards and F. B. Smith, mounted their wheels and propelled themselves to Mr. Robson's suburban home at Kirkwood, where they enjoyed an elegant dinner, after which they returned to the city highly pleased with this new method of travel.

A BAD WOUND.—Tom Jackson was badly cut with a knife yesterday morning by Fred Palmer. The wound was given during a fight which was the result of a quarrel about a debt of fifty cents. The knife, which was a small pocket knife, entered Jackson's left side near the hip, and cut upwards to the ribs, a distance of five or six inches, laying bare the entrails. The wound bled profusely, and it is not certain that death will not be the result. Palmer is being hunted by the police.

A DISTINGUISHED PARTY.—Yesterday at noon Mr. T. M. Ives, the New York agent of the Willimantic linen company; Mr. Boss, the resident agent; Mr. Clarke, the secretary at Hartford; Mr. Reid, the chemist, and Mr. Tarbell, the Boston agent, reached the city. The party will take in the exposition, see the sights about Atlanta, and have an enjoyable time generally, keeping headquarters with Mr. Allison and Colonel Barrows on Peachtree street.

STEALING SUNDRY ARTICLES.—Yesterday at noon, while the entire family was at dinner, the residence of Mr. Harry Ford, on Pulliam street, was entered by a thief, who succeeded in pocketing quite a number of articles, and in leaving the house before his presence was detected. In Mrs. Ford's bed-room the thief secured a pair of handsome vases, a large gold ring, a pair of ear-rings, a gold bracelet, a half dozen handkerchiefs, one pair black doe skin pants, one white vest, four white shirts, three undershirts, and a box containing several pairs of socks.

WIDOW BEDOTT COMEDY COMPANY.—This organization leads off in amusements this week, at DeGive's oper-house. Their engagement is only for to-night, and their play is the farcical comedy, Widow Bedott, Mr. Charles Bishop, the prince of comedians, being the celebrated widow. For three years, Bishop has been giving this comedy, and he has coined money. The verdict of the press in every city and town has been of unqualified praise and approval of not only Mr. Bishop, but of the company supporting him.

The company has just closed an engagment in Savannah, playing to large and fashionable audiences. The News of that city says: Bishop perfectly fills the role he now convulses his audiences in, and is a team all by himself, without assistance. Go and secure seats this morning.

HESS ACME OPERA COMPANY.—This troupe will begin an engagement at DeGive's opera house, Friday, the 11th. Their opening night being, for the first time in Atlanta, Olivette choruses, and orchestra. Everything is complete—aside from celebrated and well established artists among them the well known Peakes brothers, Miss Emma Elsner, who has beauty, a sweet voice, and is graceful and vivacious; Miss Adelaide Randall, who won much praise in the Emma Abbott company, and a grand chorus of thirty-five, carefully trained, fresh young voices. The company deserve large and fashionable audiences. Olivette with its breezy melodies, and fine chorus, has never been seen and heard in Atlanta. The Hess company have so sung and played it in the cities visited by them, as to have large and brilliant audiences.

GUY FAWKES DAY.—Saturday being the anniversary of Guy Fawkes day, the English waiters at the Exposition hotel, gave an improvised entertainment on the hotel grounds in the evening. It was done up in the style similar to that in the old country, and its novelty made it all the more amusing to the guests and spectators. A well made effegy of Guy, composed of an old suit of clothes well stuffed with inflammable material, and surmounted by a head whose brains consisted of a quantity of gunpowder, was suspended by the neck to a tripod and a bonfire built under him. Guy soon commenced to burn, and fireworks commenced to blaze around him; rockets went up, blue lights burned, trains of powder flashed, wheels whirled, and fire crackers banged. Before the fire reached his explosive point a circle was formed around the bonfire, each person lighting a Roman candle, saluted the wretch with the balls. Shortly the flames reached the fuse, and all that remained of the image was blown to pieces. The bonfire was kept replenished for some time, and after a couple of well-sung choruses, the entertainment was finished by the whole party vieing with each other in their attempts to jump through the flames without getting damaged. On Saturday next the waiters will observe the lord mayor's day, and extend a general invitation to the citizens of Atlanta to witness their exercises at the hotel.

COURT OF ORDINARY.—Yesterday being the first Monday in November the court of ordinary of Fulton county convened with Judge Calhoun presiding, and disposed of the following business:

The will of Susan B. McGuire was admitted to record as proven in solemn form.

Macon C. Sharp was appointed guardian of the property of Mary B. and Myra H. Sharp, minors.

Abe L. Wurzberg was appointed permanent administrator upon the estate of L. Wurzburg.

W. C. Sparks was appointed administrator cum testamento annexo on the estate of Harriet A. Boyd, deceased.

W. L. Stanton was appointed permanent administrator upon the estate of Sylvanus L. Morgan.

In re estate of Owen George, deceased, administration rested in the clerk of the superior court.

In the matter of the John Broad will the citation has been published, notifying the heirs-at-law of the deceased that his will will be opened for probate in solemn form, on the first Monday in December next.

PERSONAL.—Professor Barilli left the city last night for New York, where he goes to see Patti.

—Mrs. H. Saloshin and daughter, of Savannah, are in the city, visiting the family of Mr. G. Saloshin, 33 North Pryor street.

—Miss Daisy Kirby, of Summerville, is visiting friends in Atlanta.

—Misses Hattie Russell and Eva Gordon, of LaFayette, are in the city.

—Rev. W. E. Jones, of West Point, has moved to Atlanta.

—Miss B. Culver, of Valdosta, is in the city on a visit of several weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jenkins, of Eatonton, are in Atlanta.

—Mrs. D. C. Kendrick, of Catoosa, is visiting relatives in this city.

—Mrs. Thornbury and Miss Emma Chase, of Albany, are in the city.

—Judge and Mrs. Porter King, of Marion, Ala., are in the city visiting the exposition.

—William L. Thomas and K. H. Stone, editors and proprietors of the St. Louis Commercial-Gazette and of the St. Louis Miller, are in the city, and will remain a few days.

—Thomas P. Barry, general passenger agent of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, spent Sunday in Atlanta.

William E. Croby's Seven Wonders of the World.

This wonderful family of young ladies with their father, Mr. Fletcher Sutherland, are now on the exhibition grounds, just west of the art hall. Their hair is the longest in the world, some of them seven feet in length, while others have the most massive hair worn by any human being on earth. They are also accomplished singers, having traveled extensively as a concert of vocal and instrumental music, and are lately from the great Broadway museum, New York city. These sisters were born near Niagara Falls. Their father, old Mr. Fletcher Sutherland, a pleasant, intelligent gentleman, is always ready to converse with the visitors in regard to his family.

—The best liver medicine known is the Hamburg Drops, and it is also a specific for digestive ailments.

—The recent overflow of the Mississippi has caused damages between Keokuk, Ia., and Louisiana, Mo., amounting to $2,930,000. It will take several days yet before business in the river towns will be fully resumed.

DANDRUFF

BURNETT'S FLAVORING EXTRACTS are the best.

—President Arthur's unfeigned dignity and finished manners have impressed all who have had any intercourse with him.

WINSTON, Forsyth county, N. C.

Gents—I desire to express to you my thanks for your wonderful Hop Bitters. I was troubled with dyspepsia for five years previous to commencing the use of your Hop Bitters some six months ago. My cure has been wonderful. I am pastor of the First Methodist church of this place, and my whole congregation can testify to the great virtues of your bitters. Very respectfully,

REV. H. FEREBEE.

—Lady Florence Dixie, who went to the Transvaal as correspondent of the London Post, camped out with her husband and cooked her own rations.

Indulgent parents who allow their children to eat heartily of high-seasoned food, rich pies, cake, etc., will have to use Hop Bitters to prevent indigestion, sleepless nights, sickness, pain, and, perhaps, death. No family is safe without them in the house.

—The Chicago Journal says that United States Senator John A. Logan reached his home in that city on Wednesday morning, and Mr. Tucker, his son-in-law, astonished him by calling him grandfather.

A Kind Word of Advice.

If you feel yourself growing weak, your strength failing, the natural functions of the body becoming impaired, take warning in time; your system needs iron, which, when combined with proper vegetable extracts, produces a tonic of rare medicinal effect. Such a remedy is Brown's Iron Bitters. Buy it of your druggist and do not be persuaded to take a substitute, for this is the only remedy which gives permanent strength. It contains no alcohol, nor does it blacken the teeth. It receives the universal indorsement of clergymen, physicians, druggists, and all who have used it. nov3 d&w1w

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

Rheumatism Neuralgia

Sprains, Pain in the Back and Side.

There is nothing more painful than these diseases; but the pain can be removed and the disease cured by use of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

This remedy is not a cheap Benzine or Petroleum product that must be kept away from fire or heat to avoid danger of explosion, nor is it an untried experiment that may do more harm than good.

PAIN KILLER has been in constant use for forty years, and the universal testimony from all parts of the world is, IT NEVER FAILS. It not only effects a permanent cure, but it relieves pain almost instantaneously. Being a purely vegetable remedy, it is safe in the hands of the most inexperienced.

The record of cures by the use of PAIN KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think:

Edgar Cady, Owatonna, Minn., says: About a year since my wife became subject to severe suffering from rheumatism. Our resort was to the PAIN KILLER, which speedily relieved her.

Charles Powell writes from the Sailors' Home, London: I had been afflicted three years with neuralgia and violent spasms of the stomach. The doctors at Westminster Hospital gave up my case in despair. I tried your PAIN KILLER, and it gave me immediate relief. I have regained my strength, and am now able to follow my usual occupation.

G. H. Walworth, Saco, Me., writes: I experienced immediate relief from pain in the side by the use of your PAIN KILLER.

E. York says: I have used your PAIN KILLER for rheumatism, and have received great benefit.

Barton Seaman says: Have used PAIN KILLER for thirty years, and have found it a never-failing remedy for rheumatism and lameness.

Mr. Burditt writes: It never fails to give relief in cases of rheumatism.

Phil. Gilbert, Somerset, Pa., writes: From actual use, I know your PAIN KILLER is the best medicine I can get.

All druggists keep PAIN KILLER. Its price is so low that it is within the reach of all, and it will save many times its cost in doctors' bills. 25c., 50c., and $1.00 a bottle.

DR. HARTERS' IRON TONIC.

DR. HARTER'S

Endorsed and recommended by the medical profession, for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, Nervous Prostration, and Convalescence from Fevers, &c.

GENTLEMEN: I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. J. P. WATSON, Pastor Christian Church, Troy, O.

The Iron Tonic is a preparation of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark, and Phosphates, associated with the Vegetable Aromatics. It serves every purpose where a Tonic is necessary.

BARGAINS,
BARGAINS!

1,000 Ladies' Black Cloth Cloaks, $1.25 each, worth $3.00.

780 Ladies' Black Cloth Cloaks, at from $2.00 to $3.50 each, something startling for the prices.

1,100 of the best Ladies' $4.00 and $5.00 Cloaks ever offered in Georgia.

Fine Cloaks at less than half their value.

Too many fine Cloaks. So they must be sacrificed. I had enough Cloaks to last a month before the arrival of this lot. So that, if only for want of room, I shall have to close the entire lot at ridiculously low prices.

There are now in stock 83 cases full of Cloaks.

Come everybody and get a Cloak at your own price, at
